ANOTHER "POLITICAL LATEST" says a great bloc of Coolidge delegates has been organized. At the Kansas City start President Coolidge will be put in nomination for a second elective term. The convention will be stampeded. Coolidge will be nominated, and it will be all over. Like other important information, that may lack accuracy. They may stampede a convention. But can they stampede Coolidge?

Anyhow, the National debt was reduced by $1,118,140,130 last year. Our debt is down below eighteen thousand million dollars, less than $150 per American, hardly enough to buy a motorcycle. What does that amount to?

Following the war, came the billion. Now, here and there, the trillion crops up.

Production of electric water-power breaking records recently, shows an output for April of two trillion, nine hundred and forty billion kilowatt hours. No wonder those that control power hire professors, editors and such to denounce government ownership. No wonder it is possible to finance defeat of the Government's Boulder Dam plan.

However, those that produce power do good work in conservation. April's hydro electric power would have required 27,000,000 tons of coal, manufactured in the coal way.

And costs are greatly reduced when electric power replaces steam. And always in the shadow, sitteth the law of eminent domain, which can be used if needed.

You could not guess what keeps Prof. Crampton from Columbia University to the high valleys of tropical Islands. North of New Guinea and South of Japan he goes to study land snails. They will be prodded, observed, biologically interpreted and science may learn about evolution from them.

You could not make those snails understand that a higher analytical brain will find why they differ, from valley to valley, from mountain to mountain. The poor partula—that is their scientific name—would say: "Don't talk nonsense to us about a higher mind."

That is what some scientists say when you suggest the possibility of a cosmic thinking mind above theirs. Like the partula, they'd know no such being exists, since their telescopes can't find Him. The little, peering horns of the land snails, with eyes at the ends, will not identify Prof. Crampton.

Prof. Burstall, genuine British highbrow, tells Oxford human beings are lazy, and he is glad of it. Laziness makes us find ways to do things easily, quickly. The working day will be reduced to five hours within a generation. As for domestic servants, that "slavery" will soon be a thing of the past.

Also science will enable man to make a heaven on earth if he has brains enough to go in the right direction.

Interesting promises, but not surprising. A machine can do as much with no one's guidance as 100 men could do without the machine. Men's work may be reduced to pushing buttons one hour in twenty-four. Let's hope it won't come soon.

Pacific Flight Plane Nears Fiji Isles

HUB GIRL FLIER LANDS SAFELY IN HOP TO N. F.

Trepassey, N. F., June 4 (AP)—The monoplane Friendship, groomed for a transatlantic flight, landed here at 12:55 p m., Eastern Daylight Time today. It left Halifax, where its flight from Boston was interrupted by fog yesterday at 8:36 a m., Eastern Daylight Time. The Friendship had been held so exactly to her course and schedule in the flight from Halifax that Pilot Wilm Stultz brought the ship down almost 40 minutes ahead of the time he had announced as he took off.

The plane, carrying Miss Amelia Earhart of Boston and Medford, and Lew Gordon of Texas, besides Stultz, is a three-motored Fokker equipped with pontoons. Leaving Boston yesterday morning, the fliers stayed over night at Halifax because of dense fog encountered.

They are scheduled to leave here at the first favorable opportunity to fly to some port in England, probably Southampton.

Miss Earhart is flying as co-pilot of the plane. Gordon is the mechanic. Stultz was the pilot for Mrs.

NEW CLUE TO SLAYER OF MARY MAHAN LEADS SEARCH TO MICHIGAN

While two men were being held in Quincy court in connection with the murder of Mary C. Mahan of South Boston, the search for John Tartar, taxi driver and former boxer, wanted as the girl's slayer, extended to Michigan today.

Word was received at police headquarters from a taxi driver that he drove Tartar from Randolph to Worcester, where the fugitive boarded a train, with Michigan as his destination.

Police of Boston, Milton and Randolph have sought Tartar for three days and were beginning to believe he had taken his own life when the tip was received which led to the Middle West. Steps were immediately taken to forward a description of the wanted man to the authorities of that state, and an early arrest is hoped for.

Meantime, John O'Brien, a Boston taxi driver, and Nicholas Tartar, of Randolph, brother of the hunted man, both arrested Saturday in connection with the case, were released from custody.

PACIFIC FLIERS IN BAD WEATHER NEARING FIJI

Honolulu, June 4 (AP)—The giant monoplane Southern Cross, soaring over the vast Pacific, was 800 miles from Suva, Fiji, its second stop en route to Australia, at 7:30 a. m., coast time (11:30 Boston time) today.

It was encountering bad weather.

A message from the plane by the Radio Corporation of America read:

"Five a. m., 7 degrees, 8 minutes south, latitude. Longitude 179 west, 800 miles to Suva. Bad weather."

Thus the Southern Cross, which with four men had taken flight at 7:50 a. m., Pacific coast time, yesterday from Kuai Island, near Honolulu, had traveled 2325 miles of its epochal 3135-mile journey toward Suva, Fiji.

Of the total journey to Sydney,

KNOWLTON TRIAL OPENS AFTER NOVEL PETITION

Admitting that the government does not know where Marguerite Isabelle Stewart, Beverly school teacher, was slain, Dist.-Atty. Robert T. Bushnell filed a novel petition today at the opening of the trial of Frederick Hinman Knowlton, charged with the girl's murder.

The district attorney filed in Middlesex Superior Court a petition for "leave to proceed with the trial," the first such petition filed since the law authorizing such was passed in 1923 to block a question of jurisdiction.

BRAVES DEFEAT REDS IN CLOSE CONTEST

Braves Field, June 4—The heavy-hitting Braves defeated the league-leading Cincinnati team here today. The clubs each pushed across one tally in the initial frame. In the fifth Richbourg and Moore beat out bunts and then scored when Sheriff Brown punched a single. Eppa Rixey hit a home run into the left field stands in the seventh.

Score—Braves 5, Reds 3.

FIRST INNING

Reds—Critz singled. Purdy filed to Moore. Pipp singled. Hornsby threw out Walker, Critz scoring. Callaghan went out, Sisler to Genewich. ONE RUN.

Braves—Dressen tossed out Richbourg. Moore filed to Purdy. Sisler doubled. Hornsby singled, scoring Sisler. Bell singled. Brown filed to Purdy. ONE RUN.

SECOND INNING.

Reds—Dressen filed to Brown. Picinich singled, but he tried to take second on Farrell's throw and was run down. Taylor to Farrell to Hornsby. Bell tossed out Ford. NO RUNS.

Braves—Dressen whipped out Farrell. Critz and Pipp got Taylor. Genewich fanned. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING

Reds—Farrell threw out Elmer. Critz singled. Purdy forced Critz.

HUB SPECIALIST CALLED TO SAVE LIFE OF SHAY

Hyannis, June 4 (INS)—Dr. F. J. Cotton, Boston bone specialist, was expected here late today for a final effort to save the life of Frank Shay, playwright and colleague of Eugene O'Neil, who is in Hyannis Hospital as a result of an automobile, which he was driving, overturning on a slippery road.

MINISTERS ASK RUM INQUIRY

A new petition, urging Governor Alvan T. Fuller to go forward with a general investigation of rum charges at the State House, was signed by 150 clergymen of Greater Boston, assembled at Park Street Church today. They constituted three-fourths of the gathering.

Dr. Harold Major, elected chairman, refused to make public the contents of the petition, on the ground that such action would not be courteous to the Governor.

Attendance at the meeting was strictly by invitation, newspapermen and all others being barred while the proceedings were going on.

The committee named to send the petition to the Governor consists of Dr. Major, the Rev. Arthur T. Brooks, the Rev. William M. MacNair, Dr. Robert Watson and the Rev. George E. Heath.

Meantime the legislature committee that will probe the charges was completed with appointment by Speaker John C. Hull of three representatives to sit with two Senators at a public hearing of the allegations.

The representatives are Joseph E. Perry of Belmont and Fred E. Griggs of Springfield, both Republican.

GIRL FLIER GAMBLES ON LIFE FOR FU[illegible]UNE

The London-bound flight of the tri-motored Fokker plane, Friendship, which started from Boston harbor in the cold light of dawn yesterday, is an epic attempt on the part of a 30-year-old girl to recoup her family's fortunes, it was learned today.

In a farewell letter to her sister Muriel, Medford school teacher, Miss Amelia Earhart, in command of the flight, revealed that it is the spirit of pioneers that animates her rather [illegible] than the desire [illegible] ern young wom[illegible] It was also quiet, unassum[illegible] cial settlement [illegible] to marry Sam[illegible] ton, who w[illegible] ridence of Miss [illegible] lled on to furn[illegible] tempt to her fa[illegible]

Mother Longs to Be With Girl on Overseas Hop

"I AM not worrying. I wish I were with you. Love. Mother."—Message sent Amelia Earhart by her mother, Mrs. Amy Otis Earhart.

"I only wish I could be with her," exclaimed Mrs. Earhart when first news of her daughter's hop-off from Halifax was taken to her today by the Boston Evening American.

"I am so glad, so very glad. She has all my wishes for her success. She has mother's loving desire for safety and fond hope for accomplishment of purpose. Godspeed be with her!"

HUB GIRL LANDS SAFELY AT BASE IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Francis Wilson Grayson on her first attempt to fly the Atlantic last year.

With no advance publicity the plane took off from Boston harbor yesterday morning for Trepassey, but running into fog off Halifax, Stultz turned back and landed in the harbor there.

The flight is the first attempted by a plane equipped for landing on water, and is expected to prove the practicability of airplane service to Europe.

"It is understood the backers of this enterprise are interested primarily in scientific experimentation in air transportation over water," said a statement from Mr. Putnam.

"For the first time in transoceanic flying a tri-motored ship is equipped with pontoons, making it possible to land anywhere in water. It is this type of equipment that Commander Byrd has favored from the first as the inevitable development for long-distance commercial flying over water."

Commander Byrd also issued a statement at New York in which he said:

Byrd Wishes Them Success

"I believe that the flight of the three-engined plane that will fly with one engine dead, which is equipped with floats for landing in water, is the next step in transatlantic flying and is a sensible pioneering effort.

"I wish the pilot and crew good luck and every success, and have confidence in the courage and ability of the personnel."

Byrd explained that he had not announced the sale of the plane sooner because it was made "with the understanding that, regardless of circumstances, it was to be kept secret."

How well the secret was kept is shown by the fact that even Miss Earhart's superiors in the Boston social service work in which she is engaged seemingly were unaware of her plans. She had asked for a leave of absence, which was granted, but had not told of her plans for the ocean flight.

Stultz a month ago announced that he had been retained by Commander [illegible] to aid in tests for the forthcoming Antarctic expedition. [illegible]on and has been making test flights.

The take-off to Boston [illegible]ly after dawn, was made without benefit of newspaper reporters. Even Miss Earhart's mother and sister were not present, being informed of the take-off by telephone.

A fourth member of the party, Lou Gower, who had intended to accompany the party to Trepassey to aid in refueling and servicing the plane for her ocean flight, was left behind.

Difficulty was experienced in taking off and he got out of the plane. Minus his weight the big Fokker finally got off the water.

When the fog became dense off Halifax Stultz turned back and landed in the harbor, which hesaw through a hole in the fog. When the weather cleared later in the day he made another attempt to get through to Trepassey, but was again forced back. He then decided to spend the night in Halifax.

The attempt of this expedition, the first to be made this summer for the eastward passage, is a change from last year. Then the slogan was "get across" and any equipment, mostly land planes, single motored, was used.

Commander Byrd was the first to fly with a full crew and a tri-motored plane, but the America was not equipped for landing on water.

No lives have ever been lost in ocean flying where flying boats were used.

The United States Navy's NC-4 was the first to fly the Atlantic from Newfoundland to the Azores, followed Lt. De Bines, who although forced down, was rescued by a nearby ship. The late Commander Rodgers and his crew floated safely for several days after being forced down by lack of fuel on their flight to the Hawaiian Islands.

Lieuts. Maitland and Hegenberger flew safely to Hawaii in a plane similar to the Friendship and the plane being used on the present flight of Capt. Kingsford-Smith and his three companions on their flight to Australia in a three-motored Fokker. They are both land planes, however.

Girl Is "Nervous"

Miss Earhart was wearing a brown sweater, tight-fitting brown knickers and high laced boots when she appeared with her two companions for breakfast here before today's takeoff. She were no hat. She was busy with her camera while additional fuel was being pumped into the tanks.

Stultz said the landing in England, at the end of the proposed hop, would be at the most convenient port, and indicated that Southampton might be the one selected.

Miss Earhart seemed a bit nervous during the delay caused by the refueling. She strolled about taking frequent snapshots.

The knot of people on the float at the air station waved adieu as the plane, three motors roaring, got underway. Stultz had said briefly, "Thank you all—hope we make it."

Stultz said that both of his companions were qualified to take the stick while he operated the radio, but that he did not intend to keep in continuous communication.

The fuselage of the Friendship is painted a bright orange with its name painted in black on either side. The rudder bears the number "NX-4104." The top of the wing is painted gold and the engine housings are aluminum.

Across the bonnet of the central motor is the word "Fokker" in black script.

The Friendship has a wing spread of 71 feet and is powered with three 220-horsepower Wright whirlwind motors. Its weight, with crew, fuel supply and pontoons, is slightly in excess of 12,000 pounds.

It is equipped with a 600-meter sending and receiving radio equipment and emergency radio equipment for sending messages in event the plane is down with motors silent.

Can Stay in Air

Only 500 gallons of gasoline were carried on the flight from Boston, but it is to be loaded with from 900 to 1000 gallons of gasoline at Trepassey.

In event the gasoline supply runs low one of the motors can be cut out and the two remaining are capable of keeping the plane in the air.

Miss Earhart First Woman for Aeronautic Vice-President

When Miss Amelia Earhart hopped off from Boston on the first leg of her transatlantic flight she was unaware that she had been nominated last Tuesday as vice-president of the Boston Chapter of the National Aeronautic Association, according to announcement by Bernard Wiesman, secretary of the chapter, today.

It had been planned not to make the nomination public until the monthly meeting of the chapter at the Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday.

"Miss Earhart is the first woman chosen as an officer of the National Aeronautic Association anywhere in the country so far as I know," said Mr. Wiesman.

Flying Girl Read "Book a Day to Keep Ignorance Away"

Philadelphia, June 4 (AP) — Amelia Earhart, who will attempt the Atlantic flight eastward, is recalled at the Ogonia school, newhere, as a girl who read a book a day during a summer vacation to improve her knowledge of literature.

This record was recalled today by a teacher after ten years. Miss Earhart entered the school in 1916 and continued through the spring of 1918. Her home was in Kansas City at the time.

"Very brilliant pupil interested in every phase of student life," said the teacher of Miss Earhart.

"She was interested in literature, and that was the intensive manner in which she sought to satisfy this interest."

Fliers Kept Hop Quiet as They Left Hub Airport

When Miss Amelia Earhart and her companions set out from the Boston airport on their unheralded flight they announced only that their immediate objective was Trepassey, Newfoundland. However, as soon as they had soared out of Dorchester Bay, friends who had seen them off on the wings of the morning made it known that England was their real goal, the stop at Newfoundland being only for the purpose of refueling and rest.

Never has a flight of such magnitude been started as this first one from the Boston airport. The three riders of the clouds went out to the Jeffries Point Yacht Club in the dawn of Sunday morning and started off as casually as though their trip were a 20-mile air jaunt.

There were only one or two close friends in the secret, and even though the three had planned to start Saturday morning and had gone to the yacht club at that time their secret was kept.

The girl, who spent the early years of her life in her parents' home on Brooks st., West Medford, met a few friends from the settlement house at a luncheon across the street from the Copley-Plaza hotel where she had been registered under another name and they motored to East Boston where Stultz and the mechanic Gordon were waiting.

Two of the Earhart girl's friends,

Mother's Heart Is in the Air With Girl 'Who's So Like Lindy'

PHOTOGRAPHER DOESN'T KNOW HUB GIRL FROM 'LONE EAGLE'

Note the remarkable likeness in the features of Charles A. Lindbergh, whose lone eagle flight blazed the air trail to Europe, and of Miss Amelia Earhart, Boston girl, who set out also on an audacious flight for London. When the veteran photographer was handed the picture of Miss Earhart he exclaimed: "Where'd you get this new picture of Lindy?" Not only are their features and profiles alike, but they have kindred likes and dislikes.

HARVEY HEADS STATE ELKS' ASSOCIATION

The Massachusetts State Elks Association today elected George Stanley Harvey of Malden its president in annual meeting at Northampton.

Gen. S. Harvey

Harvey is well known as a member of the bar and served as first assistant to Dist. Atty. Tuttle of Middlesex County, 1917 to 1920.

James H. Savory of Pittsfield was chosen first vice-president, William G. Earle of Newton, second vice-president; Robert M. Lasch of Taunton, third vice-president; Edward L. Gilson of Wakefield, trustee; Bernard E. Carvin of Lynn, treasurer, and Jeremiah Hourin of Framingham, secretary.

CONFESSES ROBBING CHELMSFORD WOMAN

Lowell, June 4—Traced through an abandoned motorcycle, identified by a torn shirt, Walter C. Emery, 37, of Pearl st., broke down and confessed that he and Eugene A. Marcotte, 23, of Spring st., robbed Mrs. Katherine Saja of Cream st., near Richardson rd., North Chelmsford, yesterday.

Excellent police work on the part of Officer John E. Johnson of Chelmsford resulted in the capture of the two men and the recovery of $150, which was forcibly taken from Mrs. Saja.

Johnson matched pieces of a torn shirt given to him by Mrs. Saja and they fitted an old shirt of Emery's.

Emery finally admitted the attack, police say, and implicated Marcotte, who later was arrested. They said they had hid the money, but returned for it yesterday. They turned it over to the officers, who gave it to Mrs. Saja.

WOMAN ROUTS 'RESCUER'

Shrieks of a woman and cries of "watch, murder, police and burglars," followed by the silhouetted forms of a man leaping from one roof to another caused a furore of excitement in Bigelow st., near City Hall, Cambridge.

A report filed at police headquarters today explained the disturbance as follows:

Miss Celina White, who occupies a room on the top floor at Bigelow st., saw a man near the coping of her window. He appeared as if he was going to enter the room through an open window. Miss White screamed for help and someone else took up her cry and yelled for the police.

When order was restored and the occupants of the house at 24 Bigelow st. got back to normalcy from the "scare," it was found that a rooner on the third floor of the house heard what he believed was a woman's screams and got on the coping to investigate. He said he walked along the coping and peered into the window of Miss White's apartment.

CHINESE DEMAND THAT U. S. TROOPS WITHDRAW

Shanghai, June 4 (AP)—The Nanking Nationalist government has asked the United States to withdraw troops from North China, in answering the American note of May 18, regarding protection of American property and lives. The Chinese version of the reply says the Nationalists intend to use only well disciplined troops in Peking and Tientsin "thus assisting in the protection of Americans."

The note was handed to Edwin S. Cunningham, counsel general in Shanghai, for transmission to John Van A. MacMurray, American minister in Peking, and to Washington.

Chamberlin Wishes Girl and Air Mates Luck on Sea Hop

Middletown, Pa., June 4 (AP) —On the first anniversary of the start of his New York-to-Germany flight, Clarence D. Chamberlin today wished success to the two men and woman who are planning to take off from Trepassey, Newfoundland, in the monoplane Friendship for England.

"I have known Wilmer Stultz for three years" Chamberlin said. "He is a very good pilot and naturally I wish them good luck. Rain and fog are about the most common dangers they will experience, but this is a good time of the year, generally, for such a flight."

Hub Girl Made Hop Plans Last April, Says Pilot's Wife

Mineola, N. Y., June 4 (AP)— Mrs. Wilmer Stultz, wife of the flier who will pilot Miss Amelia Earhart's Fokker monoplane from Newfoundland to England, said today plans for the flight had been started more than two months ago.

Mrs. Stultz arrived last night after driving her automobile from Boston. At first she refused to talk about the transatlantic expedition, but today she disclosed how preparations had been hastened in absolute secrecy.

BARBERS CLIP STRIKE SHORT

The strike of 1100 barbers was short-lived today for one-fifth of that number who turned to their torsorial activities when the Master Barber's Association met their demands for continuation of present wages and conditions.

More than half of the remaining strikers will return before tomorrow, President Charles J. Todaro of the Journeymen's Mutual Protective Association predicted.

The men walked out when it was proposed their salaries be cut from $38 to $21 with a further reduction in the percentage system.

NEILSON FORTUNE GOES TO 3 OF GRANDCHILDREN

Newport, R. I., June 4 (AP)—Under the will of Mrs. Mary Isabelle Neilson, widow of Frederick Neilson of New York and this city, filed for probate today, the great part of her estate goes to three of her grandchildren, Frederick W., Alexander M. and Isabelle Neilson. Bonds for the executors, Paul Endicott Whitney of New York and the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Company of Providence, were set at $1,500,000.

Specific bequests include $20,000 to Mrs. Neilson's daughter, Mrs. Cathleen Colford, now dead; $10,000 each to Hollis Hunnewell and to her granddaughter, Isabella Kemne, and $2000 each to another granddaughter, Cathleen Vanderbilt Cushing, and to Walter J. Miller of New York.

"HARRY" MARSH, VETERAN AMERICAN EXPERT, DEAD

Robert H. "Harry" Marsh, associated with the Hearst newspapers in Boston for the last 24 years, died suddenly today at his home in Lynn. He was 60 years old. Marsh was an expert designer, having done much work for the Navy Department in draughting battleship plans. He was also employed at one time by the United Shoe Machinery Corporation at Beverly. His affiliation with the Hearst papers began with the establishment of the Boston Evening American, and for years he was manager of the advertising art department of the American and the Sunday Advertiser. Stricken Saturday with a heart attack, Marsh passed away at 9 a. m. today. He is survived by his widow, three sons and two daughters.

DOZEN POLICE TESTIFY IN YALE STUDENT RIOT

New Haven, Ct., June 4 (AP)— After a dozen police had testified in city court today to the Yale student disturbance of last Tuesday five youths held on breach of peace charges, the cases were put over until Saturday. Although six students were arrested when the rampage assumed riot proportions, one, Dartforth Lombard of Guilford, was released by Chief of Police Smith.

Those who faced the court today were Gordon B. Tweedy, 21, son of Prof. Henry H. Tweedy of Yale Divinity School, Lee C. Moore, Washington, D. C.; Hamilton Allen, Oneida, N. Y., Holland Williams, Buffalo, and Herbert S. Connell, Jr., of Scarsdale, N. Y.

AGAWAM MAN ON TRIAL IN CATTLE FRAUD CASE

Springfield, June 4 (AP)—George H. Campbell, an Agawam farmer and cattle dealer, was placed on trial before Judge W. A. Burns and a jury in superior court, today charged with attempted larceny of more than $130 from the Commonwealth by means of irregular tuberculin test operations in August, 1926. This is the third trial resulting from an investigation that led to numerous grand jury indictments.

BANKS WARNED TO TIGHTEN CREDITS

Washington, June 4 (INS)—Recognizing for the first time the nation-wide effect of unprecedented stock speculation, the federal reserve board today sounded a warning to member banks that credit must be tightened.

The analysis of the credit situation and the board's conclusions are significant of the apprehension with which the government views the orgy of speculative activity.

Loss of $400,000,000 in gold since September, coupled with the great demand for money for speculative purposes, and seasonal requirements of industry have put the member banks heavily in debt to the reserve banks, and increased cost of money to the public.

EXPTNSION OF CREDIT

Reserve credit outstanding increased $400,000,000 in eight months ending May 15, and since February the volume of credit extended by member banks increased by nearly $1,000,000,000.

"Since Tpril," the board said, "there has been no growth in commercial credit requirements and the excess has been in loans to brokers and dealers in securities on the New York Stock Exchange."

Brokers' loans reached a record figure in April at over $4,000,000,000 and continued to increase in May 15 as a result of "an unprecedented volume of transactions on the exchange and the continued rise in security prices," according to the board.

MUST CONTRACT LOANS.

"The higher cost of Reserve Bank credit, and the reluctance of member banks to remain in debt at the Reserve Banks, exert a continuous pressure on member banks," the board said.

"That these banks pass the pressure on to the borrowing public is evidenced by the rise in open market money rates and the closer scrutiny of which many loans are subjected.

day, were arraigned in Quincy court.

O'Brien has admitted he drove Tartar and the Indian girl to the Milton sand pit, where five bullets were fired into her body, and that he then took the man to Nicholas Tartar's home. O'Brien was held in $10,000 as an accessory after the fact while the mother of the missing man, who has stubbornly refused to talk, was held in $5000 as a material witness.

O'Brien, whose taxi is owned by Nicholas Tartar, said he met Tartar in the South End by John Tartar. He said he drove the couple to the vicinity of Cook's Pond, where he was told to take a walk. When he returned to the taxi he saw John Tartar with a gun in his hand, and immediately concluded the girl had been slain.

According to O'Brien's story, Tartar then forced him to drive to Randolph, and on leaving the taxi at his brother's home, handed the taxi driver the murder weapon with instructions to leave it at a South End store.

"Just Like Her to Fly!" Says Uncle; "She's Spunky!"

Kansas City, June 4 (INS)—"Well, now, that's just like Amelia!"

This was the comment today of A. M. Earhart, uncle of the latest American girl to attempt a transatlantic flight, who lives here.

"She always was a spunky little thing," said Earhart.

HUB GIRL SEEKS FAME IN AIR DASH TO ENGLAND

Miss Amelia Earhart, 30, of 27 Princeton st., Medford, and a director of Denison House, South End, took off today from Halifax for Trepassey, 80 miles southwest of St. Johns, N. F., where it is planned to hop for England in the Fokker plane Friendship. Wilmer Stultz, once pilot for Mrs. Grayson, is with her.

Miss Muriel Earhart, teacher, was the envy and the pride of all her pupils today, for hadn't she a sister who was winging her way over seas? Miss Muriel Earhart is shown being congratulated by Ralph Panetta, of 27 Princeton st., the same house in which the Earharts live.

This map shows the proposed route of the Friendship with its crew of a Greater Boston girl and two men companions. This is the first transatlantic flight to start from Boston. Great secrecy was maintained in the plans. The attempt is backed by a New York group. Miss Amelia Earhart is a trained aviatrix and with her as co-pilot is Wilmer Stultz, one time pilot for the lost Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson, and a mechanic. On the first leg the plane landed at Halifax because of fog. Today it flew to Trepassey, southwest of St. Johns, N. F., where the proposed take-off for England is planned. There is a splendid harbor there for a take-off in the specially pontooned Friendship.

AMES, SOCIETY FLIER, HOPS IN FROM DETROIT

Completing a non-stop flight from Detroit in six and one-half hours, Frederick Lothrop Ames, Boston society man and flying enthusiast, landed at Boston airport, having covered 2000 miles in three days.

With Ames on the flight was a friend, H. E. Wallis. In four hops they returned to Boston from Wichita, Kas., where they had been vacationing, stopping at Omaha, Minneapolis and Detroit. The flight was made in Ames' own Travel Airship.

The Boston society man will take off tomorrow for Virginia, " for just a little ride."

Other arrivals at the airport included three Curtis Falcons, flown by New York National Guardsmen, who are checking airways into New York State. The planes, in flight formation, took off again for New York, where they will fly here completed a 1300-mile tour in three days.

The ships were piloted by Lieuts. Ronald Appel and M. L. Elliott and Capt. Lawrence G. Brewers, with Lieut. Paul Mevers as spare pilot. In the party were Senator J. Griswold Wells, chairman of the New York State joint aviation committee, and Col. Peter J. Brady, vice-chairman.

YACHTING ITEMS OF INTEREST TO HUB SOCIETY, ANNOUNCED BY BETTY ALDEN

Cornelius Crane of Chicago Plans Long Voyage in New Craft

YOUNG MEN WHO YEARN for life on the deep blue sea as lived aboard palatial ocean-going yachts will feel more than a touch of envy of young Mr. Cornelius Crane. Mr. Crane, belonging to the plutocratic and powerful Richard T. Cranes of Chicago, and being minded to indulge his whim for millionaire boys, has had built for himself a marvelous new ocean-going yacht that will fly his pennant this summer and take him away over the bounding waves wherever fancy listeth.

MR. CRANE'S NEW CRAFT first took the water in the far away Adriatic, being constructed there by masters of shipbuilding in the ancient port of Lussenpiccolo. The Crane private pennant is known in many ports, since it has flown on the handsome schooner yacht Megildis, named in honor of Mr. Crane's cousin, Miss Eleanor Patterson and the character she portrayed in "The Miracle." A proud and graceful craft, the Megildis, admired by seaman and landlubber alike. The new craft is even as impressive, so certain well informer ones assert.

ANOTHER YOUNG MAN WITH an urge for life on the ocean wave and the wherewithall to indulge it is Columbus Iselin, 2d, of New York and Harvard University. Just as soon as academic duties permit, Mr. Iselin and a picked company of adventurers set sail aboard his staunch and fleet schooner Atlantis. All summer they will cruise toward far horizons. The romantically inclined may vision in this a search for fabled lost continents, but the Iselin plan is in a way coldly scientific, the summer to be spent in oceanic research work.

Here is Anne Sortwell, small daughter of the Alvin Sortwells. She is a clever equestrienne.

Dr. Sarah Palmer Soon to Sail Abroad for Visiting and Study.

DR. SARAH ELLEN PALMER'S annual pilgrimage abroad is to be of several months' duration, and commences June 16, when she sails for English and Continental ports. Visits with friends in London first occupy her attention, when she will be house guest of Mrs. Robertson and the Hon. John Robertson, M. P. Later she does the British Isles, devoting much time to Wales, with a view to incorporating some of its fascinating history and unproclaimed beauty spots in certain illustrated talks she gives next winter.

EVERYONE'S FOREIGN ITINERARY includes Paris, pleasure capital of the world. In that beautiful city's stimulating atmosphere Mrs. Jacob C. Rogers of Berkeley st. has been lingering during a portion of the two months or so she and her brother are spending abroad. Recently they have been in London and still are, I believe, in Paris, and probably make the return crossing to arrive home early in July.

MRS. ROGERS LEFT ON THE Ile de France. She sailed just as there was a general exodus of the Ayers, and some interesting pre-arrangements made for the crossing of paths in Europe of the Charles Fanning Ayers, the Robert Winthrops (Theodora Ayer) and Mrs. Rogers. Such a meeting pleasantly punctuated the honeymoon progression along Old World highways and byways of the Winthrops, who are doing the accepted wedding journey of their set after being wedded in St. Paul's with all the pomp and ceremonial significant to a society nuptial.

WATCHING MISS LORRAINE LIGGETT at the Millwood Hunt Horse Show sail over the bars on her favorite Mickey or the handsome Sir Pett one might well consider horses the paramount interest of her existence. But if what the little bird twitters has a soupcon of truth, and Miss Liggett has consented to smile on the ardors of a certain young Southerner, then a very interesting announcement may soon be forthcoming from the Liggetts, pere et mere. And consequently feminine fripperies will for a while oust the severe riding kit from her first regard, as trousseau collecting goes on.

THE HANDSOME WAVENEY — Challenge Bowl will permanently odorn the Myopia's trophy room, fruit of victory to a Myopia hunt team as put over the fences on Millwood's outside course. Veterans of hunts, shows and race meets such as Messrs. Appleton and Sortwell very well know what's what, and often bring home the beacon. Little Miss Anne Sortwell, a junior rider, has the light hand on the reins and the firm seat in the saddle necessary to fine horsemanship. And rides as excellently as a daughter of the Sortwells should.

MRS. ALVIN SORTWELL'S horse show costume was smartly done in soft wool ensemble of tan and rose. Mrs. Richard Ely Danielson was similarly and effectively togged out, Mr. and Mrs. George Richmond Fearing, 3d, were on the side lines, and had Mrs. Charles Choate with them a part of the time. Miss Elizabeth Hubbard's silk frock, enormous hat and beautiful fox scarf were handsome enough for an Ascot Day and the Royal Enclosure. The same might be said of Miss Nancy Hale's golden brown velvet wrap and silken frock.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM STUART FORBES and their daughter, Miss Barbara Forbes, watched the Millwood show from their motor parked near that of John R. Macomber of Raceland. Miss Forbes and Mrs. Forbes just came back from Europe a week or so ago, and so the family is established for the season at Hamilton. The Sidney Winslows were at Millwood for both show days, their motor filled with friends to watch Miss Miriam Winslow's ring appearances. Ribbons are her frequent reward.

MILLWOOD'S IS SEASON'S BEST HUNT SHOW

By THOMAS FAY WALSH

The Millwood Hunt's sixth show has drifted into the past, but it was lovely, pleasant drifting beneath a sky of Italian blue, over a thick carpet of dense background of brilliant green, freshened by recent rains. I know of no place better suited for a horse show in the full sense of the word.

Primarily a hunting show, the saddle and harness classes were in the background. The saddle judge, Alden Blodget, very capable, worked quickly.

In class 10 the outstanding horse and rider were Cuddles and Miss Evelyn Brisson. I have never seen Cuddles put up such a brilliant showing, nor Dale McDonald go in such a lackadaisical manner, yet here Cuddles was placed third. This decision by the hunting judges drafted for the moment because Mr. Blodget had not arrived, aroused much adverse comment.

ONE FAULTY JUDGMENT

Millwood was the outstanding hunt show of the year, and in their own department the hunting judges gave a careful workmanlike exhibition except in one class—the heavyweight. Here the ribbons were given to middleweights, the only real heavyweights being outside the awards. In fact one horse in the ribbons was a top-lightweight.

Judging like this is inexcusable. A lightweight, or middleweight should be "gated" immediately in a heavyweight class. Both judges know the line of demarcation, one especially, and I was sorry to see an otherwise perfect score marred.

The arrangements for the jumps were sensible, with new ideas that many of the so-called big shows could advantageously copy. The fences were stiff, but so arranged that neither horse nor rider could come to great harm.

In the triple bar jump the bars were sawed through in the middle so a heavy smash would break them. This is a humane idea for which I think both horses and riders are grateful.

SIDE SADDLE BEST.

The judging of the ladies' hunters was flawless. The winner was ridden side saddle (five per cent in its favor), had a snaffle bit and—most essential for a ladies' hunter—its manners were perfect. I still contend a horse jumped side saddle should have more than five per cent given to it, as the side saddle brings the hocks down on the obstacles in a way cross-riding does not.

I noticed both Miss Bird and her brother always waited until nearly all the competitors had jumped before taking their horses in. It seemed like a beautiful gesture, as though they said, "Our guests come first," Waveney Farm being their home.

The usual trouble of people who pay for parking spaces and then can't see because of spectators who crowd in front o' them was evident.

The man who pays admission certainly has a right to see the show. The man who pays for a parking space wants what he pays for without obstruction. There are several ways in which this could be remedied.

I was talking to an exhibitor who had many entries. We were at the rail when an officer demanded to see our badges and asked us to move along.

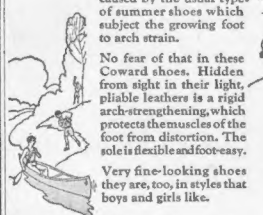
An altercation resulted, the exhibitor refusing to move or show his ticket. Fortunately we were nearly in front of my parking space and so the matter ended, although the irate exhibitor vowed Millwood would see him no more.

Similar incidents happened several times. Exhibitors make the shows. Without them there could not be a Millwood hunt show. Furthermore, people show horses for fun, not to run into disagreeable situations. No one likes to be made to feel that he or she is trespassing.

The attendance was large both days, but if people could realize that here was a really great hunt show judged by any standard, in a picturesque setting that would delight anyone, even if not interested in horses (if there are any such people), it seems to me that the roads to Waveney farm would be crowded with patrons.

SUMMER CAMP SHOES

Light in weight, rugged, and good for growing feet



OF all the shoes that your boy or girl wears, the ones for vacation are most important. Foot troubles so often start then—frequently caused by the usual type of summer shoes which subject the growing foot to arch strain.

No fear of that in these Coward shoes. Hidden from sight in their light, pliable leathers is a rigid arch-strengthening, which protects the muscles of the foot from distortion. The sole is flexible and foot-easy.

Very fine-looking shoes they are, too, in styles that boys and girls like.

HUB GIRL RESUMES SEA FLIGHT

Marion Perkins and Mildred Towle, found that there was not room enough for them in the boat which took the adventurers out to the plane.

Miss Perkins and Miss Towle promptly engaged another craft, the owner being convinced that they were rum-runners, and they reached the plane just in time for the start.

There was a fourth member of the party in the Friendship just before the start, Lou Gower, but it was finally decided to leave him behind because of the extra weight.

None, except the few actually interested in the flight, knew of the real objective of the plane until one member of the farewell party exuberantly threw his new straw hat overboard, and shouted:

"Do you know where that plane's going? She is off to England."

Then others of the party adopted a "now-it-can-be-done" attitude, and more details of the flight were learned.

Hundreds had seen the Friendship, the plane formerly owned by Commander Byrd and in which he had planned his South Pole flight, at its mooring place near the yacht club but none realized that a slim, blonde girl from out a Boston settlement house planned a sensational flight in it.

But there is something more than a thrill for the "girl Lindbergh" in the present flight, for it has a real scientific mission. It is hoped that it will prove that over-ocean flying is safe and practicable in a plane equipped with pontoons making it possible to land anywhere in water.

Girl Flier Dares Death to Recoup Fortune

tel and displayed by Muriel at the modest home of the Earharts at 17 Princeton st., today, dealt simply and without heroics with the adventure which will mean fame and fortune, or death.

HER FAREWELL LETTER.

"Dear Snappy: It read in part (Snappy being a diminutive for Muriel); "I have tried to play for a large stake and if I succeed all will be well.

"If I don't I shall be happy to pop off in the midst of such an adventure. My only regret would be leaving you and mother stranded for awhile.

"I haven't told you about the affair as I didn't want to worry mother, and she would surely (she may now) if I told you. The whole thing came so unexpectedly that few know about it.

"Sam (Samuel Chapman, her fiancé) will tell you the whole story. Please explain all to mother. I couldn't stand the added strain of telling mother and you personally.

"If reporters talk to you say you know, if you like.

"Oh, by the way how funny it was when you told of Mr. Hart's conversation about flying.

"Wasn't it odd?

"Yours respectfully,

"(Signed) SISTER.

"P. S.—I have made my will and placed my house in order. I have appointed a girl friend at Denison House to act as administrator in case of my death."

THREE LEFT IN FAMILY.

The allusion to Mr. Hart in the letter, according to Muriel, was prompted by her story of a visit which he paid her, during which he discussed transatlantic flying, ignorant of the fact, of course, that her sister was planning an attempt at that time.

It is believed Miss Marion Perkins, chief executive of Denison House, who witnessed the start of the flight, is the friend referred to by Miss Earhart as administratrix of her estate.

"I do not know that she named me as administratrix in case anything happens on the flight," said Miss Perkins, "but I would not be surprised if she did, as I am the only person where she was employed to whom she talked of her plans.

PLANS QUICK RETURN.

"When she left Miss Earhart expected to catch the first steamer for the United States on arrival in England, and be back on the job at Denison House in two weeks. However, her return is uncertain, as her plans may be upset if the flight is successfully accomplished."

There are only three women left in the Earhart family, which formerly enjoyed considerable prosperity, residing on an estate in Brooks st., West Medford, which was recently sold.

The white-haired mother and Muriel reside at 27 Princeton st., Medford, a block away from the school where the younger girl is a teacher. Mrs. Earhart made a brave attempt to appear cheerful in the face of her elder daughter's death-defying adventure, but it was a pitiful attempt.

TEARS IN MOTHER'S EYES

With tears streaming from her eyes the mother attempted to deny statements that she had suffered a collapse, but the effort was too much for her and she was forced to withdraw, leaving the interviewer with Muriel, who was preparing for school.

The family came from Kansas where Amelia was born in Atchison in 1898, and where she attended school. She graduated from the Hyde Park high school at Chicago and then from the Ogonta School for Girls at Philadelphia.

During 1917 and 1918 she served in the Canadian Red Cross as a nurse, and later took special courses in Harvard, Columbia and University of California. While on the Pacific Coast Miss Earhart took up aviation, receiving her certificate as a pilot in 1923, after a few months' flying. In her final test she ascended to an altitude of 11,000 feet, and according to official observers of the flight at Los Angeles she demonstrated remarkable ability.

WAITING FOR WORD.

Coming to Boston two years ago, Miss Earhart became connected with Denison House as a social settlement worker, and during her spare time has done considerable flying at the Denison Airport at Atlantic. After the family reverses, which necessitated the sale of the home on Brooks st., the mother and sister took an apartment on Princeton st., and Amelia roomed at the Denison House, where she was extremely popular.

Her mother and sister were as much on the dark regarding her contemplated flight as the general public and it was not until the letter was received by Muriel that she learned of it.

All last night Muriel and her mother sat up hoping for a message from Amelia, but they failed to receive one. It was expected they would hear sometime today. The mother, Mrs. Amy Otis Earhart, is the widow of Edwin S. Earhart of the legal forces of the Canadian Pacific Railroad.

OTHER WOMEN INTERESTED.

It became known today also that another woman, more prominent than the quiet, daring Amelia Earhart, is interested in the flight of the Friendship. She is Lady Frederick Guest, wife of the commander of the British Air Forces.

Lady Guest, an American by birth, being the daughter of Henry Phipps, Pennsylvania steel magnate, had planned to attempt the transatlantic hop herself, but gave it up because of the objections of her family. However, her interest led her to purchase an interest in the Friendship, giving it its present name as a gesture for international amity.

Another romantic element was injected into the venture when it was learned that "Slim" Gordon, the Jersey City, N. J., mechanic, is also flying for love and fortune. If the hop is a success he is to be married to Miss Anne Bruce, a Brookline girl.

The fourth woman whose heart is in the big tri-motored plane is Mrs. Stultz, wife of the famous pilot, who was originally engaged by Mrs. Frances Grayson to handle her ill-fated The Dawn.

HUNT FOR "GIRL LINDY."

Stultz, it is understood, is to receive $25,000 if the Friendship reaches the other side safely.

Miss Earhart, however, will be the big winner if the flight is successful. It is reported that she will receive a percentage interest in all profits accruing from books and stories to be published, together with stage and movie contracts.

A friend of Miss Earhart today told how she came to begin the great adventure. Comdr. Richard E. Byrd sold the Fokker plane to Lady Guest, but when opposition arose to her making the flight, George Palmer Putnam, author, explorer publisher of Lindbergh's book, became interested. He telephoned to Boston to Capt. Hilton Howell Railey, head of a local financial and publicity organization, stating he wanted to find a "girl Lindy" for an Atlantic crossing.

SHE LOOKS LIKE LINDY

Rear Admiral Belknap, a friend of Miss Earhart, who was in the office at the time, mentioned her name. When the plans for the flight were completed Capt. Railey went to London to handle the publicity work attending the arrival of the plane on the Thames.

Miss Earhart is secretary of the board of directors of Denison House, where she has been in charge of the Junior-intermediate girls' work. Her first year was devoted to teaching English to foreign-born residents of the district.

Her co-workers were not in the young woman's confidence, although they knew she was interested in aviation, and often spoke of her resemblance to Col. Lindbergh. In a flying helmet and leather coat, Miss Earhart could be taken for "Lindy's" sister. She is tall, with the same long face and long chin, with light hair and blue eyes.

Miss Earhart Seventh Girl to Attempt Atlantic Hop

Of seven women fliers to attempt transoceanic flights, one is in the air today, four were lost, one rescued at sea and one turned back to safety.

None has yet succeeded in the venture upon which Miss Amelia Earhart of Boston has embarked.

The women pioneers to give their lives in transoceanic flying were Miss Mildred Doran, Mrs. Frances

FLIER REACHES SPITZBERGEN IN NOBILE HUNT

(Copyright, 1928, by Associated Press)

Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, June 4—The seaplane Hobby arrived here today with Lieut. Luetzowholm, Norwegian flier, and it was hoped the first search by air for the missing dirigible Italia would be under way shortly.

The ship, with Holm, Mechanic Myre and the seaplane in which they intend to search, will go north as soon as possible to Virgo bay, Amsterdam Island. The exploring flights will be started from there. The vessel's trip to Virgo bay is expected to require six to eight hours.

When the Hobby arrived here it had a hunting man named Noels and another named Tanberg aboard with 10 dogs, sledges and supplies. It will be decided during the day whether they will try to make their way northward from here over the land or stay aboard the Hobby and be put ashore later.

The Braganza, en route to Reindeer Land, landed a search party at Cape Verlegen Hook, which made a rapid survey of the peninsula and the [illegible] Linlopen Straits was then continued, [illegible]

GLENN VOLIVA IN HUB AFTER WORLD TOUR

Completing a tour of the world in which he visited 19 countries, the Rev. Wilbur Glenn Voliva, successor to John Alexander Dowie, founder of Zion City, Ill., today arrived in Boston among a large number of passengers aboard the Cunarder Laconia. He was accompanied by Mrs. Voliva.

In citing an account of his travels he described Rome as "the most beautiful city," Jerusalem as the "most interesting," Paris as the "most disappointing" and Cairo as "the wildest" he found in his travels. The couple traveled 19,000 miles and included a visit to Mussolini in their travels. Both commended him for his work in making "order out of chaos."

J. J. Simington, manager of the Dublin (Ireland) Times, was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital, Brighton, in an ambulance that awaited him at the dock. He recently underwent an operation and made the trip before complete recovery rather than disappoint Mrs. Simington and their daughter, who arrived with him.

MAD CAT ON RAMPAGE

HAROLD TOWER DOMINICK PALOMINE

2 VICTIMS OF WATERTOWN FELINES

Watertown's mad cat scare broke out afresh after a week of immunity when Harold Tower, 10, was reported as the fourth victim of a vicious feline. The scare was thought ended last week when a cat was shot after biting Miss Alice Pelletier of Allston, Rose Diliberia and 3-year-old Dominick Palomine of Mt. Auburn st., Watertown.

NORTHAMPTON MAN IS HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

Northampton, June 4 (AP)—Joseph Parent of Belchertown was held without bail after pleading not guilty in district court today to the murder of Emile Gauthier, 23, of Ludlow. Gauthier was shot and fatally wounded at Parent's home Saturday night. Parent had ordered him and four companions to leave the premises.

Parent's case was continued to June 21 and Dist. Atty. Charles Fairhurst said the facts would be presented to the Hampshire grand jury.

RECORD BROKEN BY SCIENTISTS CHURCHES

"A year of unprecedented prosperity and growth in every department," was reported today by the trustees of 6000 persons attending the annual meeting of the mother church, First Church of Christ, Scientist, held in the church edifice, Falmouth and St. Paul sts.

Included in the attendants were men and women from every part of the globe. Reading of reports by the church and department officers and ruling boards constituted the major part of the annual meeting, opened by Mrs. Ella W. Hoag, retiring president.

The treasurer's report showed total receipts of $1,495,045.25 for the year ending April 30, with a balance of $164,073.61 still on hand after deduction of the year's expenditures.

During the year speakers of the board of lectureship delivered 3626 lectures before an aggregate audience of 2,365,051 persons. Of these lectures, 1223 were delivered in the United States and Canada.

The report of the board of lectureship claimed numerous instances of healing through Christian Science during the 12 months ending with April.

These included the healing of a deaf woman, a blind woman, a woman with tuberculosis, a woman with a film over one eye and a hatred against a neighbor in her indebtedness, and a woman suffering from an infectious disease.

"Today the scientific, religious, political, industrial and medical thought of the world is beginning to acknowledge the healing forces which are found in spiritual truth and good," the report declared.

Ninety-one new churches and societies have been recognized during the past year by the Christian Science board of directors as branches of the Mother Church.

Twenty of the new branches are in Europe and one in Australia. The Mother Church now has 2244 branch churches and societies and 32 college and university organizations.

During the year 98 practitioners and 129 nurses were approved by the board of directors.

Perfectly Wonderful!

You are speechless when you see the utter beauty of the waves created under the magic fingers of Mr. Greene with his Miracle Process of permanent waving which transforms straight hair into a wide and beautiful wave. Mr. Greene is at the Poll Parrot Beauty Salons, Circuline and Miracle Permanent Wave Shoppe. The Miracle waves which are regularly priced $25 are now $20 and the $20 Circuline is $15, a special price for a limited time. Make a day or evening appointment at 177 Tremont St. (Cap. 6775), 58 Winter St. (Cap. 5846) or at 49 Scollay Sq. (Hay. 2903).

For June Brides

and those fortunate people who are now opening their summer homes some first quality Pequot sheets and pillow cases are on sale at Marion Desmond's, 28 Chauncy St., Room 510. The sheets 81"x99", are priced at $1.75, and the pillow slips, 42"x38½", are priced at 42c each. She has other lovely linens in stock which you would be proud to own. Then here's a secret. Just 100 pair of sport dresses in coral pink, yellow, white and green, in washable flat crepe in smart sport styles priced at $10.75. You can get them here sizes 34 to 20. Let's visit this shop now!

Now Away With Me

to a shop you and I have not visited together before. You'll love the dresses at the Gilleon Gown Shop, Room 907, 26 West St. The sport dresses are lovely in their soft colors in wash dresses, tub silk dresses and that new material, Celanese, which will not wrinkle. Some of the tub silks are priced as low as $7.95. There are some adorable printed crepes and georgettes priced at $15. These dresses are in styles designed to suit the misses, women and the larger women. I know you'll find an attractive style that just suits you.

You Remember Our Sue

don't you dear? She had a perfectly awful growth of superfluous hair on her face and she was so ashamed to go out in public. I told her about my friend, Miss Elizabeth Sparkes, an electrolysis needle expert, at 120 Tremont Street. She made several appointments which were very private, as you could well imagine, knowing Sue. Miss Sparkes worked wonders with that magic needle of hers and removed all of the offending growth completely. Imagine Sue's utter joy when she realized that it would not grow again. For appointments, call Hancock 1022.

I Was With

Elizabeth when she went up to Parker Bros., third floor, New Studio Bldg., 110 Tremont St., to get her coat that had been made over for only $60, from a very old fashioned ripply raccoon to a smart, swanky tomboy style. It had straight lines, nice leather buttons and plaid lining with satin yoke. It looked just like new. Mr. Parker will make your coat over for you from $35 to $60, but it in storage and you may pay for it when you want to wear it in the fall. He also has a full line of dresses which he is closing out priced two for $15 and other dresses up to $22.50.

We Have Long Known

the colors that belonged to brunettes to best set off their dusky beauty, and those most becoming to blondes. But now along comes the new "Costume Rings" made in colorful stones to suit every costume, or the accessories that go to make your costume complete. In small square settings of sterling silver, the limitation sapphire, emerald and crystal rings, priced at $5, are beautiful indeed and will add a last smart note to your ensemble. These are plain and simple so they look more real. Others are lapis, black onyx and amethyst color in large and small rings, priced up to $25. To go with your pearl beads you'll want some duo-pearl earrings, perfect fitting, with one pearl on either side as white and perfect as a drop of dew. These are priced at $3 a pair and they pinch on the ears. There are others with drops priced at $3.50 a pair. I know that by this time you have guessed where these attractive rings and earrings are. At Filene's Inexpensive Jewelry Department, of course, on the first floor. I know you'll want some of these rings to match your new outfits, so we'll go over there now!

This Is the Day of modern mothers. It's hard to tell these young mothers from their daughters sometimes, isn't it, Anne? Did you ever know a younger looking Mother than Florence Kathryn Wright to be her sister instead of her daughter. Florence knows how to capture youth and keep it fast. She made a visit to the S. S. Pierce Company, 69 Tremont St., for some of Ann J. MacHale's Hair Coloring Restorer and applied it steadily for a while after her hair started to turn gray and the natural bronzy color returned. It doesn't dye the hair but restores the color, tones it up and cures irritation of the scalp, making it thick and shining and radiantly alive. It is priced at $1 a bottle. She also uses Moth Patch and Freckle bleach, which is priced at $1 a jar, and that adorable soothing and healing application for sunburn, rough skin and chapped hands, Ann J. Cream, priced at $1.50 a bottle. The Ann J. MacHale products are all guaranteed toilet specialties and if you use them they will give you a clear, delicate complexion and lovely, healthy shining hair. How lucky Florence is to have found these fine products and how fine it is that we can use them, too!

Curtain Values

in very rare fine figured dotted marquisette curtains, formerly $2.50, are now $1.79 at Lepie's, 54 Chauncy St. This is Lepie's special for this week, dear, and is to be given to us at just the time when all our June brides are doing their shopping for their hope chests. For those who are using new delightful touches in their homes and for their summer cottages there are some more of those cottage sets trimmed in rose, blue, gold and green for $6c a set. For brides and homemakers Lepie has silk puffs, spreads, blankets and feather and silk pillows. This shop is filled with good values.

A Closing Out Sale

is going on at the Ambassador Lamp Shop at 41 Winter St., 5th floor, because this attractive shop is going out of business. This means a sale with many good values that you will not want to miss for there are many lovely living room and boudoir pillows selling for a very small price. Just think of colorful lamp shades and gorgeous French dolls—all hand made—selling for less than cost. Or metal bridge and junior floor lamp stands regularly priced at $18.50, now $5 to $12.75. Georgette is priced at $1.35 a yard, lamp-shade frames, formerly 50c to $2, now 15c to 75c. Everything in stock is greatly reduced.

The Special Price

of $9 is still available on permanent waves—at the delightful shop of John P. Hughes at 216 Tremont Street, Room 506, right opposite the Majestic Theater. Miss Kitty McMahon is still busy giving lovely, natural, wide waves that she gives so well. You remember about the new dryer that Mr. Hughes perfected, which slipping quietly into three speeds, each one of which intensifies the drying power, dries the hair in 15 to 20 minutes. Hair cutting and attractive bobs are given in this shop, also scalp treatments and facials. Call Capitol 3690 for appointments!

I Know You'll Adore

the ensembles I saw at the shop of Mae Callaghan, 51 Arcade, Park Square Bldg., for they are very lovely indeed. They come in all colors, and are soft sport silk dresses with flannel coats the same color, priced at $16.50. There are some smart shantung ensembles also which come in all colors. Afternoon dresses with detachable sleeves in all the soft pastel shades, so desirable for prep dances and parties, are priced at $16.50. This is the shop of fine values!

Miss Modern Girl

is never quite satisfied until she acquires clothes with just the right smart New York style about them so she visits Mr. Al. H. Green who makes weekly visits to New York in order to keep his attractive Grace Gown Shoppe, at 41 Winter St., Room 85, adequately supplied with all the latest creations. Lovely in their colorful allure are the one-of-a-kind dresses just arrived. The price is $16.75. He also has a gorgeous supply of dainty silk underwear and hosiery and everything is drastically reduced in price.

My Little Bride's

bouquet, when the great day comes, is not to be all white as you might suppose. She feels that this is the generation in which color reigns supreme, so she has chosen to have one of the bouquets of color created by Penn the Florist at 124 Tremont St. Sweet fragrant "Madam Butterfly" roses, that elusive color just between cream and pink, will blend so softly with sweetheart roses, and apple blossom sweet peas. The rare perfection of each sweet bloom will fill the church with fragrance and she will remember this, her bouquet of color, all the days of her life!

The Spanish Galleries

at Chandler & Co., Tremont St. at West, have more of those remarkable $15 coats. They are lovely and once you see them you just won't want to leave the store until you buy at least one. There are twills trimmed with fur and some of those lovely novelty fila silks with double throw scarfs. Then for the lady who likes a more tailored coat there are the plain twills, mixtures and kashas. The velveteens come in pigeon blue, mauve, black and purple. The white coats made of novelty basket weaves, flannels and cheviots are fine for sport wear. They all come in women's and misses' sizes.

Do You Wish

a guarantee on your permanent wave? If you do it is well to get it at the shop of L. Cunningham, Superior Service Beauty Shoppe, at 561 Boylston St., Copley Square. She is extending her $10 price through the month of June and you may have a large, deep, loose or tight Marcel Permanent, with round ringlets or Mae Murray Curls. All waves are wrapped for ringlet ends. Just think of describing your own style and getting just what you desire, in either a Nestle Circuline or a Frederics Vita-Tonic Compound method permanent. Telephone Back Bay 9069 for appointment.

Just As Surely

as Summer is coming, and Spring is indeed with us we must look forward to Winter and the needs thereof. Now is the time to have your old fur coat made over into a new next-season style. Jordan Marsh Company's Fur Repairing Section on the second floor, Main Store, is prepared to make your coat over during the Summer months so that it will be quite ready for the first cold snap. Their fur estimators are at your service and will give you information without obligation. You needn't pay for your coat being remade until next Fall. Let us try your coat done now if I were you, Anne, and be sure and have an attractive new lining.

Summer Sands

and wind-swept summer porches come to your mind when you enter Evelyn's Dress Shop at 8 Winter St., third floor, for she has the most charming cool and delightful summer sport frocks that you would care to see. They are priced at $8.95 and up and come in the softest orchid, pink, blue and green, some of them with painted designs. Then there are airy prints and sheer soft chiffons and evening dresses designed to lend you enchantment at evening affairs, priced at $12.95 and up.

About Vacations!

You know, dear, what happens. Swimming causes sunburns, frolicking in the sun brings on freckles, beach-lounging makes blackheads. If you use the right preparations, quickly your good looks are preserved, if not your beauty is ruined for many months. You may have good times and still preserve your beauty by taking Dr. Post's Beauty course with you. Use it promptly after exposure to trying conditions and keep looking young. It's fateful for $2 will show you how. Telephone Haymarket 1647 for appointment or call at Post Institute, 6 Beacon St., Room 910.

Gem Air Permanents

priced at $8 for a limited time are unsurpassed for lovely wide waves. You can have them at the Cheney Beauty Shop at 178 Tremont St., fifth floor. No electric wires are used on the scalp, only hot air. For $2 you can have the famous Arbao Scalp Steamer treatment, which consists of a shampoo, steaming and a treatment which will make your hair shining and lovely, giving it strong health and beauty. This treatment also revitalizes permanents, bringing back the gleam and glow that was originally theirs. Call Capitol 2197 for appointments.

What Care We

in this day and time of wonders unequalled, if Time does add years to our age. It doesn't matter much, for we know the secret of keeping our skin young and fresh and fragrant by using Virozol Swedish Face Bath, priced at $1.25 at The Shepard Stores, at 20 Winter St., Toilet Goods Dept., first floor. It is a fine astringent also and whitener. In fact it takes delightful care of milady's precious skin, leaving it soft and fair and white. Fragrant Virozol Face Powder in its sky blue box is made of pure ingredients and good for fine skin. Don't forget your nightly use of these products!

We Are Going to Meet

Beth at the Hollywood Bobbing Shop at 110 Tremont St., Room 327, where you can get an up-to-the-minute permanent with natural wide waves. Each permanent is guaranteed to give you perfection and satisfaction. Before you decide on your permanent you should see the living models who display this reasonably priced and highly satisfactory wave. Mr. Troccoli supervises all the permanents given and thus you are insured against any element of guess work if your hair is bleached or white. You must surely have one of the Hollywood original "cyclone" bobs. For bobbing and marcels this shop is unsurpassed. Tel. Capitol 6437.

"The Best For Less"

is quite true in the case of the San Fan Hosiery Shop at 110 Tremont St., Room 326, New Studio Bldg., where they are selling full fashioned, pure thread, silk chiffon stockings which are silk from top to toe, but with the garter top reinforced with lisle to make them wear longer. These pure silk hose are priced at $1.00 a pair for a limited time only, and are truly a remarkable value. You may also have pure thread silk full-fashioned service weight, with four-inch lisle garter top, for $1 a pair, or for $1.39 extra heavy service weight or extra sheer chiffon—all first quality.

Marion Says

that she has never known a cream so feathery and delicate as La Reine des Cremes or one that will so nicely protect your skin from the sun and wind and varied New England climate. Marion's skin is as fine and velvety soft as the petal of a rose. She takes a little of this creme on the tips of her fingers and covers her entire face with a gentle upward movement. It quickly vanishes into the skin and prepares her face for powder, which will adhere for hours. La Reine des Cremes has won the Paris Exposition Gold Medals even as far back as 1900 for purity and efficacy. It is put up by Lesquendieu of Paris, and sold exclusively by Meyer Jonasson & Co. Toilet Goods Dept., first floor, Tremont and Boylston Sts.

Lorraine Just Got

a pair of oxfords, a fine, soft, light weight shoe with low military heel and English walking last. It is such a fine shoe for all round wear, and what a comfort to those tired, aching feet. Of course it is an arch support shoe, just one of many styles priced at $8 at the office of my foot specialist, Dr. A. P. Saul, Room 312, New Studio Bldg., 110 Tremont St. For those who are troubled with varicose veins he has an almost invisible light-weight silk elastic stocking priced at $6.75 which is highly recommended by physicians. For expert treatment for corns and callouses, in fact for all your foot troubles, go to Dr. Saul.

Every Morning

when I pass by the James W. Brine Company at 92 Summer Street on my way to the office I just stop again and admire the smart sport clothes they have in the window. For the misses they have those adorably smart "Tee-shirts" in tan and white broadcloth in sizes from 8 to 20 and for the small miss to size 32. The price is $1.97, a real bargain considering that the regular value is $3.50. These come extra long if you desire them so with chemise closing for sport wear giving the athletic girl plenty of freedom. Then there are sport Kasha skirts with double kick pleats in green, powder blue, light and dark natural colors, specially priced at $2.95. What values, Anne!

I think this shopping tour has been one of the nicest we have had. Perhaps that is because there are so many things for brides this week and the shops are so filled with things that give us promise of summer. Even though we haven't started our shopping for vacations yet, we just can't help thinking about them and planning just what we will take with us. Before next week I will try to find some of the necessities for vacation because by that time you will know when you are going away. For June is actually with us and from now on you can look forward to summer shopping tours with your

HUB SURGEON IS KILLED BY PIN PRICK

An ordinarily pin prick took the life today of Dr. Howard A. Lothrop, Boston st. surgeon and surgeon-in-chief at the Boston City Hospital until his retirement a year ago.

The doctor died at 6:20 a. m. at the Charlesgate Hospital, Cambridge, where, last Thursday his right arm was amputated. He never rallied from the operation.

Dr. Lothrop was poisoned by a safety pin, two weeks ago, while adjusting a bandage on a patient's wound. Blood poisoning set in within two days and a minor operation on the thumb was performed by Dr. Augustus Riley.

The poison spread rapidly, nevertheless, and two other local operations failed to check the spread. Then, in an attempt to halt the poison going through the surgeon's system, his right arm was taken off above the elbow.

Dr. Lothrop was 63 years old December 31. He was born at Sharon and was graduated from Harvard University in 1887. Four years later he received his degree from the Harvard Medical School.

For 30 years he was connected with the Boston City hospital, was consulting surgeon at the Sharon Arlington hospital and for a long period was an assistant professor of surgery at the Harvard Medical School.

Dr. Lothrop acquired considerable fame in 1913 when he operated on Clarence V. T. Richeson, then awaiting execution for the murder of Avis Linnell, after the unfrocked minister had mutilated himself in his cell at the Charles st. jail.

COURT RECESSES AS TERM FOR SINCLAIR IS PENDING

Washington, June 4 (INS)—The district court of appeals recessed for the summer today without giving an outlook on the appeal of Harry F. Sinclair, sentenced to three months' imprisonment for refusal to answer questions before the Senate Teapot Dome committee in 1924. Sinclair was found guilty by a jury in April, 1927.

BAY STATE MAN'S SLOGAN FOR HOOVER IS ADOPTED

Springfield, June 4 (AP)—William V. Field, secretary of the Republican Club of Longmeadow, a suburb of Springfield, was notified by James F. Good, head of the Hoover campaign at Washington, D. C., that his slogan, "Who but Hoover," will be adopted at the Republican convention at Kansas City.

17-Year Locust Army Mobilizing Near New Britain

New Britain, Ct., June 4 (AP)—The vanguard of the brood of 17-year locusts predicted for Connecticut this year has emerged from its underground quarters and is swarming in large numbers in sections near this city.

The insects emerged from the earth by boring holes half an inch of the city. A handwoner found hanging in clusters on bushes west of the city. A landowners found a freshly painted summer house covered so thickly that he could scoop them off by the handful.

Owing to their brief period of life after leaving the ground, the locusts, scientists say, can cause but little damage and will have disappeared before crops can be damaged.

HOMER'S OPENS NEW DOWNSTAIRS GEM STORE

A new downstairs store, following closely on the celebration of the store's 44th birthday, was opened by Homer's, diamond jewelers, at 55-59 Winter st. The management has made arrangements for large purchases from manufacturers, the saving on which it plans to turn over to customers. It is planned to take advantage of situations in the wholesale trade that force quick sales at low prices.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the for Rent columns.

AFFIDAVIT OF DEAD MAN MAY SAVE MOONEY

Chicago, June 4 (AP)—A voice from the dead spoke today to save Tom Mooney, radical labor leader, from the life sentence he is serving in the San Quentin, Cal., Penitentiary.

It was an affidavit bearing the signature of Alfred H. Spink, a sports writer, who died last week. It set forth that the preparedness day parade bombing in San Francisco July 22, 1916, in which 11 persons were killed was plotted and executed, not by Mooney, who was found guilty of it, but by agents of the German government.

The Federation of Labor, by resolution, voted to seek Mooney's release, using the new document as the basis for action.

The affidavit goes back to the ante-war days when Mr. and Mrs. Spink lived in Oakland, Cal. Mrs. Spink, who was a German, became friendly with Mr. and Mrs. Powell Mertz, neighbors, who, the affidavit said, were reputedly German agents. On the day of the preparedness parade in San Francisco, Mrs. Spink mentioned to her neighbors that she planned to attend the celebration. Mrs. Mertz warned her not to, the affidavit set forth, telling her that "something awful" was going to happen.

AERO BUILDING DEDICATED AT TECHNOLOGY

With Harry M. Guggenheim, Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics; Edward P. Warner, Capt. Jerome C. Hunsaker, aeronautical engineer, and Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics William P. McCracken present, the Daniel Guggenheim Aeronautical building was dedicated at Technology today.

The new building, for which a grant of $230,000 was made by the Daniel Guggenheim Foundation for the Promotion of Aeronautics, will house all aeronautical departments and laboratories at Technology with the exception of the aeronautical engine laboratory.

Secretary McCracken made the dedication address and President Harry M. Guggenheim of the Foundation, Sec. Warner and Capt. Hunsaker, instructor in aeronautical engineering when the course at Technology was in its infancy, also spoke.

As part of the exercises the Jomes Means Memorial Medal for 1928 was awarded Samuel Niedelman of New York, whose essay on aircraft and problems was judged the best submitted. Niedelman is a senior.

For the dedication, a special exhibition of aeronautical instruments was arranged, this including the barometer, thermometer and other instruments used on the first flight across the English Channel in 1785 by the French aeronaut Blanchard and a Boston physician, Dr. John Jeffries.

ANCIENTS MISS GOVERNOR AT CELEBRATION

Marred by the enforced absence, through illness, of Governor Alvan T. Fuller, the exercises celebrating the 290th anniversary of the organization of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery were carried out by that body today with its traditional parade, church service and drum-head election of officers.

The events of the day began with the laying of a wreath by Capt. Lionel G. H. Palmer and his staff on the grave of Robert Keayne, first commander of the Ancients, in Kings Chapel burying ground.

Shortly afterwards the entire company assembled at its headquarters in Faneuil Hall for the annual muster, fell in with its equipment in the drill hall and began the parade to the State House, the New Old South Church, and later, to the Common for the election of commissioned personnel.

MILITARY GUESTS

High ranking officers of the regular military forces of the United States and Canada participated in the anniversary exercises as guests of the organization.

These included Maj-Gen. Rivers, Inspector-Gen. of the U. S. Army; Brig-Gen. W. E. Horton, U. S. A.; Col. W. B. Anderson, commander, Seventh Military District of Canada; Col. George Rice and Maj. L. McRitchie, both of the Canadian forces.

The parade, leaving Faneuil Hall, formed in company front on Scott's Market st. for inspection, proceeded to State st., Washington, School, Beacon, Dartmouth to the New Old South Church, where the annual church service was conducted and the sermon preached by the Rev. Oshie Maurer, chaplain of the Second Company of the Governor's Foot Guards of Connecticut.

Secretary of State Frederick C. Cook represented Governor Fuller at the reviewing stand at the State House grounds and at the church service.

POLICE LEAD PARADE.

Among the visiting organizations in uniform to take part in the parade were the Lexington Minutemen, the Varnum Continentals of East Greenwich, R. I., and the First Light Infantry of Providence.

Major William H. Hennessey of the Ancients was officer of the day; Col. William J. Miller, adjutant of the guard; Capt. Thomas H. Hatigan, escort to the Governor, and Capt. Fred E. Bolton, escort to Mayor Nichols.

Col. Willis W. Stover commanded the Ancients on parade and his adjutant was Major William H. Wilson.

The line of march was led by a mounted patrol of Boston police, followed by the band of the Ancients, which, in turn, was followed by the parading members and guests.

DORIS KENYON
With frizzy hair and costumes to match, Doris plays opposite her husband, Milton Sills, in his new underworld thriller, "The Hawk's Nest," at the Olympia, Scollay and Central Sq. theaters.

'SCARLET DOVE' AT MODERN

Two feature pictures, as opposite as the poles, make up the bill at the Modern and Beacon this week.

Myrna Loy

The Scarlet Dove," a romance of imperial Russia, is the first; and "Ham and Eggs at the Front," a negro war comedy described as "the dark side of war in a fight vein," is the other. In the latter film, Myrna Loy, who was once mentioned as one of the many West Coast beauties, daubs up in burnt cork and joins the two well-polished buddies, Tom Wilson and Heine Conklin. The boys are a pair of dusky sheiks who, in a desperate attempt to win their shady sheba, become hopelessly enmeshed in all kinds of misadventures—ending in a balky balloon.

In "The Scarlet Dove," the picturesque Josephine Dorlo, who only recently came from Italy, is seen as that familiar movie figure, "the bartered bride." When she "falls out" with her "cruel and abusive" husband, she readily falls in with the handsome hero, who generally turns up in the nick of time just for such an emergency.

SILLS STARS IN MASTER FILM "THRILLER"

"The Hawk's nest," now showing at the Washington Street Olympia, the Scollay, and the Central Square theaters, is the best film Milton Sills has had in years. This is due in great measure to the excellence of the direction, the work of Benjamin Christensen.

This picture marks a distinct departure for Sills, who appears in the early part of the story as a disfigured war veteran, with a makeup greatly suggestive of Lon Chaney.

The story, which concerns two underworld resorts, operated largely to thrill tourists, is handled in unique manner by Christensen, who achieves some of the finest trick camera effects that have been seen since "The Last Laugh" and "Variety."

The air of Chinatown is symbolized as much by camera work as it is by actual Chinese architecture, the picture being given all the weird mystery of a "thriller" largely through such camera work.

Sills carries one of these underworld cafes for tourists, while Montagu Love, another underworld gangster, operates a rival establishment, which is attempting to put Sills' place, "The Hawk's Nest," out of business. Dorothy Gulliver is Sills' partner, played by Mitchell Lewis.

The romance between Sills and Love is deepened through Sills' protecting the dancer, played by Doris Kenyon, who is sought by the villain.

Mystery, thrills, and the tense atmosphere of the underworld furnishes the background for this fast-moving drama. A particularly admirable performance is given by the distinguished Chinese actor, Sojin. The story is by Wid Gunning, who also produced the film for First National Pictures.

DRAW JURY FOR KNOWLTON IN DEATH CASE

The petition was allowed, and after a few other preliminaries and filing of motions work of selecting the jury began.

Five jurors were picked out of the first 29 talesmen examined. The five are: Walter L. Howard, salesman, of Somerville; Alexis J. Benoit, inspector, of Newton; Andrew L. Halpin, accountant, Everett; James H. Shillady, salesman, Everett, and George S. Wyman, salesman, Waltham.

Out of the next 21 talesmen examined, the remaining seven jurors were picked, filling the jury box.

Those seven are Hector B. Tyler, mechanic, of Cambridge; Charles H. Midwood, plumbing inspector, Lowell; Silas B. Fairbanks, mechanic, Hudson; James J. Lane, fireman, Lowell; Frederick J. Elliott, bookkeeper, Newton; David G. Sharpe, loom fixer, Maynard, and John J. Gerrish, salesman, Melrose.

As soon as the jurors were obtained, they were taken out for a view of Knowlton's automobile, alleged to be the murder car.

Of the first 29 examined, Knowlton personally challenged four, with a brief "I challenge." In the case of the first five selected he remarked: "I do not challenge."

This was on suggestion of Judge Wilford Gray, presiding.

Hyman Pill, prominent hardware dealer, was one of 11 men of the panel excused for cause. He was excused because he is a delegate to the Democratic convention.

Another was excused because he said he had talked with the defendant's father since the murder.

Judge Gray's ire was aroused by the declaration of a talesman that he was strongly prejudiced against capital punishment.

"I am not so sure that your answer is as honest as it was ready," remarked Judge Gray crisply.

A controversy between state and defence arose, prior to selection of the jury, when Dist. Atty. Bushnell declared he did not believe the customary "view of the scene" by the jury was necessary, inasmuch as he could not prove the murder, location and, therefore, had nothing to show the jurors.

Atty. John P. Driscoll, counsel for Knowlton, insisted that he wished to give the jury a view, however.

The question was left open temporarily by Judge Gray.

Nothing can excuse perspiration odor

For safety, keep pores purified

THE lure of many an attractive girl—the career of many a capable man—has been ruined by perspiration odor.

Yet how needlessly! Of course, we have to perspire. Physicians say it's healthful. Even on cool days, our pores give off about a quart of odor-causing waste every 24 hours. We become all too easily accustomed to this odor ourselves, but others detect it instantly.

A simple precaution

Yet it's so easy to guard against offending now. Millions have found that regular bathing with Lifebuoy not only refreshes and invigorates—but assures bodily daintiness always. Lifebuoy's mild and abundant antiseptic lather deeply purifies all pores, giving you bath-to-bath freshness and safety.

Lifebuoy's gentle antiseptic lather removes germ, too—that guarding health. Makes complexion fresh and clear. You'll delight in Lifebuoy for every toilet purpose.

What a clean scent!

You will learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant clean scent, which tells you Lifebuoy purifies. It quickly vanishes as you rinse. Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll use it for life. Get some today.

Washington, June 4 (AP)—Hamilton F. Kean, victor in the recent five-cornered Republican senatorial race in New Jersey, informed the Reed campaign funds committee today that he incurred over $48,000 in his campaign manager and that all but $1000 of it was spent.

Kean said he had "very little information about where the money went." He is Republican national committeeman for New Jersey and was the first called in the Senate's inquiry into expenditures in the New Jersey primary race.

NEW SUITS FOR $917,216 AGAINST WOOD ESTATE

In an attempt to recover $917,216.23 in the estate of the late William M. Wood, for years head of both corporations, the American Woolen Co. of Massachusetts and the American Woolen Co. of New Jersey, have brought two new suits against the Old Colony Trust Co. and Cornelius M. Wood, executors of the estate. The plaintiffs charge fraud in connection with claims alleged to have been conceded by Mr. Wood during his lifetime. The new suits involve the transfer of Wood's home, "Arden" in Andover, to the Washington Mills controlled by Wood, theirs to the American Woolen Co. of New Jersey, and thence back into possession of Mrs. Wood.

Lemon Pie Can't Fail

HERE is a lemon pie that cannot fail because the ingredients are already successfully mixed for you. We made it recently in the Martha Lee Kitchen, using a pie filling that we know is made of only the very finest and purest ingredients.

They are so carefully mixed that there is no risk of failure. Richly golden with that real, fresh lemony flavor, creamy, yet firm enough to cut well, any one can now have a perfect lemon pie.

From this filling, too, you can make many choice and delicious puddings, pastry and cakes, but today I want to tell you about the pie.

First, we placed the contents of a package of this pie filling in a double boiler. Then we added 3 level tbsps. of sugar and stirred in slowly half a cup of cold water.

Next we added the beaten yolks of 2 eggs and 2 c. of boiling water. This mixture was cooked over hot water, stirring constantly until thickened, which took about 10 minutes.

While it was still hot, we poured it into a pie crust shell, previously baked over an inverted pie pan and covered with a meringue, and browned the pie in a slow oven.

The meringue was made by adding 2 tbsps. cold water to the whites of 2 eggs. Then beat until very stiff and then add gradually 2 level tbsps. of powdered sugar and beat until smooth. Yum! Yum!

MISS EARHART SEVENTH GIRL IN 'DEATH HOP'

Grayson, Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim and Hon. Elsie Mackay.

Ruth Elder was rescued at sea and Lilli Dillenz turned back at the Azores after hopping off on a westward flight across the Atlantic.

LOST IN THE PACIFIC.

Miss Doran, 22-year-old school teacher of Flint, Mich., perished last August when the plane named after her and in which she was a passenger disappeared somewhere in the Pacific during the Dole air derby from Oakland, Cal., to Honolulu. John A. "Auggy" Pedlar and Vilas K. Knope died with her.

The amphibian plane, Dawn, vanished completely last December with Mrs. Frances Grayson and three men en route from Roosevelt Field, N. Y., to Harbor Grace, N. F., on the first leg of a hop across the Atlantic to a destination unnamed.

While never positively established, the Dawn is believed to have crashed somewhere off Cape Cod. Lieut. Oskar Omdal, Brice Goldsborough and Fred Koehler flew with her. Lieut. Stultz, pilot with Mrs. Earhart, withdrew from the crew of Mrs. Grayson's plane after a false start from Old Orchard, Me.

ELSIE MACKAY VANISHED

Hon. Elsie Mackay, English beauty, perished in an attempted westward crossing of the Atlantic from Cranwell Airdrome, near London. With her in the plane Endeavour, which was never reported after leaving the Irish coast, was Capt. Walter G. R. Hinchliffe.

The 63-year-old Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim, British born widow of a German prince, was a passenger in the plane "St. Raphael" on an attempted westward crossing of the Atlantic last August.

With Col. Frederick F. Minchen and Capt. Leslie Hamilton, she hopped off from Upavon airdrome, near London, headed for Ottawa, Canada. Their plane was reported several hundred miles off the Irish coast and then was swallowed up in the silence that engulfed Nungesser and Coli.

RUTH ELDER NEARLY WON.

Of all women to attempt trans oceanic flights, Miss Elder came the nearest to success it is believed. Surely she was the most fortunate. With Capt. George Haldeman in the "American Girl," she took off from New York on an attempted flight to Paris last October. Their plane was forced into the ocean some 325 miles northeast of the Azores and they were rescued by the S. S. Barendrecht before their plane caught fire and was destroyed. When forced down they had covered nearly 3,000 miles in 35 hours of flying.

Lilli Dillenz, Viennese actress, got as far as the Azores on a proposed flight from Nordeney, Germany, to New York, in a sea plane. The ship broke a propeller during an attempted takeoff from Horta last October and the flight was abandoned.

The honor to be the first woman to fly across the ocean, either Atlantic or Pacific, is still sought by Miss Dillenz, Thea Rasche, Mabel Boll and others. Many have been planning for attempts this Summer, but it is likely all plans will be abandoned if the Boston girl succeeds in the crossing to London.

Landlord Collects a Lot of Rent for the Holdup Man

Chicago, June 4 (INS).—When James Crawford's "for Rent" sign drew a prospective tenant to his apartment, Crawford was asked about other tenants.

"Do they pay their rent?" asked the obvious flat-seeker.

"They do indeed," replied the landlord.

"Then hand its over," demanded the party of the second part, who suddenly produced a revolver.

He relieved Crawford of $1000 and fled.

STULTZ FIRST GOT NOTICE AS DAWN PILOT

Although long considered one of the most capable pilots in the country, Lieut. Wilmer Stultz did not attract the spotlight until he signed as the pilot of Mrs. Frances Grayson's Dawn for a flight from Old Orchard, Me., to Denmark last year.

His subsequent withdrawal in the belief that the ship was not capable of the flight was substantiated in the loss of the plane with all on board.

Stultz made one hopoff in the Dawn and against the wishes of Mrs. Grayson turned back after engine trouble developed 500 miles from Maine. He said the ship would not gain altitude and was running into a fog bank at 400 feet. His lack of confidence in the craft resulted in his withdrawal.

Stultz was then employed by Charles A. Levine to pilot the Columbia, in which Chamberlin and Levine had flown to Germany. Stultz flew the Columbia on a round trip between New York and Havana last March with Levine and Miss Mabel Boll as passengers.

In April he was engaged by Commander Richard E. Byrd to test the planes Byrd intended to fly on his South Pole expedition. The Friendship is one of these.

A report was current for a time that Stultz would succeed Floyd Bennett as second in command of the South Pole trip. Stultz seemed willing but not eager to go. Byrd's selection of another man was made without announcement of whether the position had been offered to Stultz.

With his wife, Stultz had been in Boston for several weeks. He was a daily visitor at the Boston Airport, and there, on Saturday, declared:

"I have wanted to make an ocean hop for several years and almost succeeded with Mrs. Grayson." He failed to indicate that within 24 hours he planned to start for England with only a girl and a mechanic as crew.

Shortly before the Friendship hopped off, Stultz said the flight of the Southern Cross to Australia would be a success "because they have a navigator who knows his business." Then he added:

"With a navigator and a radio transmitter, combined with a trimotored plane, ocean flying is as safe and sure as flying over land."

There is no radio transmitter aboard the Friendship and Stultz is not a navigator but Miss Earhart knows something of the subject.

MOTHER GETS LETTER FROM GIRL FLIER

A special delivery letter from Miss Amelia Earhart, in command of the transatlantic plane Friendship, was received by her mother, Mrs. Amy Otis Earhart, at 27 Princeton st., Medford, today.

This was the first direct word the mother had received since the start of the hop from Boston Harbor yesterday morning, and it found her viewing the attempt more calmly than when she had first learned of her daughter's action.

"I received a special delivery letter from Halifax this morning," said Mrs. Earhart, "in which Amelia told me not to worry. She said they were taking on additional fuel at Halifax.

"I am not worrying, although I didn't know Amelia had any intention of flying the Atlantic. I have the utmost confidence in her plane and I feel she will make it. I am not unduly worried, but would like to have reassured her of the fact.

"In fact I am not as much upset over this flight as some of the mountain flights she took in California. There she flew from the mainland to Catalina Island quite often, and I did not worry over the water trips as much as I did over the flights she made over the Sierras.

"Amelia took her first flying lessons at Santa Monica from a woman instructor, whose name I don't remember.

Hub Airmen See Success for Girl in Ocean Hop

Boston airport men expressed complete confidence in the success of Amelia Earhart's surprise flight to England today in her monoplane Friendship. Some of the comments were:

B. F. BILLINGS, operations manager of the Boston Airport Corporation—Every chance in the world to make it. With three motors, pontoons and radio that tri-motored Fokker should weather right through into another chapter of flying history.

HUT A. M. BAUKSTROM, chief pilot, Bay State Flying School—Surest thing you know, they'll make it. Would to God I had the opportunity to go on a hop like that! Anyone that would pass up the chance would be crazy. They'll make it and good luck to them.

FREDERICK LOTHROP AMES, flier and Hub sportsman—Perfect clinch they'll make it. Two pilots, three motors, pontoons and last, but not least, nerve and grit. I don't see where they can fail.

A. LEWIS MacCLAIN, chief pilot, Boston Airport Corporation—Failure is out of the question. Miss Earhart and party have the greatest chance in the world to attain their goal. The three motors and good equipment gives them a splendid chance.

EDWARD W. FISCHER, president of the Old Colony Airways Corporation of Revere—Miss Earhart is another flier of the Lindbergh type. She is a wonder in plane knowledge. She is modest, yet firm in her beliefs, and I haven't the slightest doubt but that she was sure of her success when the hopoff was made.

LIEUT. RICHARD E. COBB, army pilot—Miss Earhart has all the chance in the world. Equipment and weather are greatly in her favor.

"Disappointed" Mabel Boll Tells Boston

There was a disappointed lady talking over long distance to Boston today as a result of the Stultz-Earhart hop from the Hub en route to Europe.

The voice was that of blonde and stately Mabel Boll, "Queen of Diamonds," who for a year now has been endeavoring to be the first woman to fly across an ocean.

Miss Boll telephone to William Eaton, traffic manager of the Boston Airport Corporation, and asked him if it were true that the trimotored Fokker had started for Europe with Stultz as pilot.

Eaton replied that he knew nothing officially about the flight.

Miss Boll told Eaton that she was "greatly disappointed in Mr. Stultz as he was going to fly my plane across later in the summer."

FLIERS RACE STORM IN SOUTH SEAS AND JOKE ALONG WAY

Australia, begun at Oakland, Cal., Thursday morning, the Southern Cross had then flown approximately 4238 miles over the vast Pacific.

Should the weather become menacing, gasoline supply near exhaustion or engines misbehave the men of the Southern Cross were in a position to shorten today's flight by at least 300 miles, veering southwestward from their course and alighting at Apia or elsewhere in Samoa.

MOON IS THEIR FRIEND

The fliers radioed at 9:10 a. m., Pacific Coast time (1:10 Boston time):

"Hello, Samoa. How are you getting us?"

The message was picked up by the naval radio station here.

The cable station at Fanning Island, 1200 miles south of the Hawaiian Islands, heard this message at 8:30 a. m., Pacific Coast time, from the Southern Cross:

"Having poor flying conditions now. Weather changeable. We have been dodging rain clouds and flying in circles sometimes. It certainly would have been unfortunate were it not for our old friend, the moon."

MENACED BY STORM.

Radio dispatches picked up at San Francisco and Honolulu vividly described the second leg of the flight, and told of the dangers. First there were ominous dark clouds, a little rain and then a sputtering motor caused the navigators temporarily to slacken speed. This difficulty apparently disappeared as the plane neared its way through the night with a full moon furnishing the only light.

Confident that Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith, skipper of the Southern Cross, and Charles Ulm, who is alternating at the controls, Navigator Harry M Lyon and Radio Operator James Warren, who comprise the crew, will reach Suva, Harry Marks, mayor of the little town on the coral dot in the ocean announced that the birdmen were to be his guests during their sojourn on his island.

Messages of Fliers Are Heard at Pacific Isle

Suva, Fiji Islands, June 4 (AP)—For the first time since the monoplane Southern Cross left Honolulu on Sunday, wireless stations at Suva, the destination point, were able to copy messages broadcast by the big plane today.

The first message told about "dodging about to miss a heavy storm."

So confident was Henry Marks, mayor of Suva, of the success of the flight of the monoplane Southern Cross, that he announced today that the four men comprising the crew would be his guests while they are here.

Illinois Committee on Public ...lity In...formation.

FOLLOWING the appeal for publicity as...rable in Chicago, set forth in these columns in the reproduction of a telegram from George Oxley, publicity director of the National Electric Light Association in New York, to Bernard J. Mullaney, director of the Illinois Public Utility Information committee, Mullaney lost no time in getting action. Mullaney forthwith wrote his assistant, R. E. McGregor, to get busy, suggesting:

"Perhaps Harper Leech can be interested. Perhaps some of the financial editors or reporters can be interested and then helped to get an interview out of some prominent citizen, banker or otherwise, from the viewpoint of keeping the Government out of business."

Well, they succeeded in interesting Harper Leech, a feature writer on The Chicago Tribune. At intervals all through 1927 he wrote stories discrediting Boulder Dam. He still is interested and still turning to the power lobby for ammunition to use.

This is made clear in the above letter, asking the lobby for data for Leech, written two months ago by McGregor to Maj. J. S. S. Richardson, publicity director of the Joint Committee of National Utility Associations. Maj. Richardson's committee, on June 1, 1927, replaced the National Electric Light Association as the official propaganda and lobby organization to defeat Boulder Dam. Richardson, according to testimony before the Federal Trade Commission, has been given $400,000 to spend doing his job.

The McGregor letter to Richardson, now in Trade Commission's files, reads:

"March 21, 1928

"Major J. S. S. Richardson,
"Joint Committee of National Utility Associations,
"420 Lexington Ave.,
"New York, N. Y.

"Dear Major Richardson:

"Harper Leach of the Chicago Tribune (he who wrote as 'Scrutator') is working on a series of articles about the electric light and power industry and is obtaining quite a bit of data through this office.

"Now he is on the track of Boulder Dam. He wants to know if the construction of Boulder Dam in accordance with the Swing-Johnson Bill would back the water up over any other feasible dam sites for a power supply.

"Also, he has an idea—from some information he has obtained—that the whole Boulder Dam is a Los Angeles real estate promotion affair. He would like to have any data that might be had to back up that theory.

"I'll appreciate it if you'll have some one wire me tomorrow (Thursday) if possible, the answer to the first question and let me know if you can send me any data to support the real estate promotion idea.

"Also, what is the latest developments, theories, etc., concerning the proposition—material that might help him.

"Best Wishes,

"Sincerely,
"Assistant Director,
"Illinois Committee on Public Utility Information."

2 GUARD JUROR IN 'MICKEY' ROCCO CASE

For the first time in the history of the Commonwealth a single juror today went to luncheon under escort of two court officers.

The unusual situation developed in Suffolk Superior Court, where a one-hour session of court before the noon recess resulted in the selection of but one juror of the 12 who will decide the fate of Michael Rocco, alias "Micky the Wise Guy" and William F. O'Donnell, charged with the murder of John J. Donovan in South Boston on December 29.

Daniel L. Donovan of Granite ave., Dorchester, was the only juror chosen out of 22 called. Ten were challenged by the defendant, eight by the government and 13 were excused. The trial is being conducted before Judge Joseph Quinn.

Asst. Dist. Attys. William McDonald and William Sullivan are prosecuting the case. Daniel J. Gallagher and Herbert A. Callahan are counsel for the defense.

Wooden Markers Over U. S. Soldiers' Graves to Be Destroyed

Washington, June 4 (AP)—To avoid the possibility of the wooden crosses used in marking the graves of American soldiers in Europe from falling as they are replaced by marble headstones into the hands of anyone who might exploit them, Secretary Davis has ordered that they be destroyed.

Some crosses have been sent to relatives requesting them, but Secretary Davis believes the markers belong to the American people and should not be turned over to individuals or organizations.

The replacing of the wooden crosses has been completed in all but three cemeteries, the Meuse-Argonne, the Oise-Aisne and the Somme.

18 CUSTOMS GUARDS ARE SUSPENDED IN RUM PLOT

New York, June 4 (AP)—Police officials of New York today, working with the federal Government in an investigation of alleged collusion by civilians, customs guards and marine police to smuggle liquor from transatlantic liners following suspension of 18 United States customs guards.

Philip Eiting, collector of the port, announced the suspensions came after several weeks of under cover investigation. The investigators said the police received $20 for each case they allowed to be unloaded while the customs guards received $10.

KELLOGG NOW SEEKS MORROW AS HIS AID

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.,
Editor of Universal Service.

Washington, June 3—Dwight Morrow will be the new Undersecretary of State if Secretary Kellogg can prevail upon the ambassador to Mexico to relinquish his diplomatic mission to become his alter ego at Washington.

His closest friends here doubt Morrow is willing to leave his present post, where his welcome by the Government and people of Mexico has made him feel much at home. His decision may be made today aboard the Mayflower, on which the ambassador is cruising in the lower Potomac as guest of the President.

Aboard the Mayflower is Robert Olds, who is retiring soon as Undersecretary of State to become associated with the law firm of Sullivan & Cromwell of New York. He will make his home in Paris. Olds is said to be hopeful of persuading Morrow to succeed him.

If Morrow becomes the next undersecretary, it is suggested in diplomatic circles, he would be in line to succeed to the Secretaryship of State when Kellog retires

The WOLF-MAN of PARIS

BY RAFAEL SABATINI
Author of "SCARAMOUCHE," "THE SEA HAWK," "CAPTAIN BLOOD," ETC.

A Story of Love and the French Revolution

The Boston Evening American begins today the publication of "The Wolf-Man of Paris," the gripping new novel by Rafael Sabatini. It is the literary sensation of the season. It is as interesting and fascinating as "Scaramouche," "The Sea Hawk," "Captain Blood" and other stories from the pen of Sabatini. It depicts love in the shadow of the guillotine, of flight from the Red Terror.

In "The Wolf-Man of Paris" you will meet Chauvelere, that laughing, attractive revolutionist, who is half-wolf and half-fox, half-gentleman and half-valet. Once again, as in "Scaramouche," Sabatini uses the turbulent period of the French Revolution as the background for this tale of adventure and love.. The lovely courageous Cleonie de Montaorbier will captivate your fancy, and you will be fascinated by that gallant nobleman, Corbal.

[RAFAEL SABATINI IS author of "Scaramouche," "Captain Blood" and other fine novels. The story he has supplied original[illegible] under the title "The Wolf-Man of Paris" is a typical [illegible] Corbal.]

CHAPTER I

SHADOWS moved behind the broad lattice that formed the upper part of the heavy wooden doors at the gallery's end. Those nearest, observing this and knowing what it portended, caught their breath. From these, apprehension ran like a wave over the groups assembled in that long narrow avenue of doom, stilling their chatter as it went, until in a moment all was silence.

Upon that silence the rasping of a key in its lock rang like a pistol shot. One of the powder-ns wings of the great door swung inwards. The turnkey entered, brawny and swarthy, his blue shirt gaping away from a hea[illegible]ry chest, a fur bon[illegible]net on his cropped head, a yellow bloodhound at his heels. He stood aside on the broad platform at the foot of the steps, to give passage to a brisk young gentleman in a tight black frock and a round black hat that was adorned by a buckle in front and a cockade at the side.

A paper in this man's hand drew the eyes—some scared, some apathetic, some proudly indifferent, and some defiantly scornful—of the [illegible] hundred or so men and women assembled there from their various quarters for the day's purpose of hearing that paper's contents. For this same young gentleman, Robert Wolf, clerk of the Revolutionary Tribunal, was the adjutant of the Public Accuser.

With the ball "taking a ride," Rogers is about to drop his bat and start for first base. His feet are in the proper position for the get-a-way as you can see.

FOLLOW THROUGH
The Braves' manager, at right, was caught in this one at the finish of his swing. Note the shoulders and body twisted around with the force of the sock, giving every available ounce of weight to the blow. The follow through is most important to be a successful batter.

STARTING THE SWING
In upper center is shown the great grip of Rogers Hornsby. These hands have guided his bludgeon to a .415 batting average. Rogers' perfect batting form is evident in above photo. He has taken a good step forward, and the bat will be even with his body when it connects.

Maloney Favored to Beat De Mave at Tepee Tonight

HUB HEAVY IN GREAT SHAPE FOR BATTLE

By JACK CONWAY

JIM MALONEY, South Boston heavyweight pride, will return to the fistic wars tonight when he clashes with Jack DeMave in a 10-round bout at an Argonne A. A. show at Braves Field.

It will be Maloney's first Boston start in two years and a half. During Jim's last ring surge, he did most of his battling for Tex Rickard in New York.

Maloney is in perfect condition for tonight's contest. He is down to 198 pounds and prepared to go at a fast pace.

Maloney, picking one as a setup in his corner back of him, feels confident. De Mave has clashed with Sharkey, Henry Renault, Izzy Jisko and most of the other heavyweight leaders and has always been there at the finish.

Jack Conway

De Mave showed here recently against Jack Humbert, winning the decision.

Down in New York, Mave the "Pride of Bay Ridge" has been red hot, featuring an early knockout victory over Jack Delaney, after which he defeated Jack Renault, Izzy Jisko and Mickey Walker, all of the latter being heavyweight leaders.

MATCHMAKER EDDIE MACK of the Argonne A. A. announces that in Central Maine Maloney will meet Jack Delaney, the Canadian middleweight champion, in a 10-round bout at Lewiston two weeks from tonight. A Maine boy, Robert Coates, will be the "natural." But those Maine fans will crack at Robert's every punch in support of DeMave. This bout will give us a good line on Maloney.

Maloney is a heavy favorite in the betting for tonight's bout. This is due chiefly to the fine condition he is in.

Personally, I see no reason why Maloney should not win tonight's bout. He has been active in the ring during the past two years, while DeMave has been out of the game for a long spell. Maloney's solid condition and will to win should prove a big factor in his favor.

Maloney is sure to receive a fine reception from the crowd. Being a fighter who likes to mix it up, Jim is sure to please his fans.

Tonight's Card

"DYNAMITE" JIM PRIMED

RETURNS TO HUB RING

Jim Maloney, hard-hitting heavyweight, will appear for the first time in 2½ years in a local ring when he faces the tough and aggressive Jack De Mave tonight at Braves Field. The "Blonde Tiger" has never been knocked out in his life, and has boxed Sharkey, Heeney, Risko and other good fighters. He will work hard to maintain his record when he faces the "Strong Boy."

"Most of all, I hate your success," he said cruelly. "I'm proud of it, in a way—but I wish you'd fallen down on the job. For my sake." His lips twisted in a sort of humorless smile. "I guess you can't understand, can you?"

DISCIPLINING CHILD

By CONSTANCE CAMERON.

"DAD, may I go over to Jack's after dinner?" The small face is all innocence, and Dad regards it a moment from behind his evening paper.

"Sure," he agrees airily. "Sure. I don't care."

Triumphantly Sonny blazes into the kitchen where Mother is frying the chops and mashing potatoes. "I'm going to Jack's when I have my dinner, Daddy says I may."

The trip to Jack's has been forbidden by Mother, not once, but two or three times during the day, but Sonny has carried it to what he regards as the Supreme Court.

In many a home the patient discipline of twelve or fourteen daylight hours is wrecked in two seconds under the electric lights, when Daddy has come home. It is a problem, for a youngster must obey both parents, to be sure. There is only one solution, and that is a conference by both parents, not after Sonny is half grown, but when he is in his cradle. Being with Sonny the greater part of the time, it is only fair that Mother's word must remain the LAST word in discipline, and when Father is asked a favor, it should be countered with the question: "What does Mother say about it? If she says you may, it is all right with me."

Having two "bosses" is confusing to a child and results in his not obeying either of them. Suppose that we had two Presidents in the White House, one a Republican and one a Democrat? What would be the result? Utter confusion, utter riot and lawbreaking throughout the country, because if Democratic principles pleased us in one instance we would all turn Democrats, and vice versa. We would be neither one or the others, and, after all, the only way to test the merits of any administration, either in the home or country, is to abide by the rules and principles of that administration.

The mother should have the disciplining of the child for the simple reason that she is the one who meets the problems and sees the mistakes of the child and it is her responsibility to meet them immediately with a suggestion or kindly correction. Here, also, is the responsibility of administering any necessary form of penalizing or punishment, and it is unmorning, unfair and cruel to the father to make the role of judge and hanger-out of penalties his role thus estranging father and child and breeding dislike and fear where there should be love and companionship between them.

The mother who threatens: "You just wait till your father gets home! I'll tell him about this, and he'll punish you," is committing a tragic mistake. If there is punishment to be doled out, she should take the full responsibility for it. If the punishment is fair and just, the child will not resent it. A youngster is innately logical and fair. He knows when he deserves reprimanding and when you are giving it to him without proper cause.

If there is an occasion when the father and child are to be alone together, tell the youngster that he is to do exactly as father tells him. No one of us is free. We all obey a person or power wiser than we are, whether it be a human being, who by reason of his older mind or better mind holds a position over us, and to whom we go for instructions and advice; or, if there is no person to whom we are accountable, we still go to a Higher Power for inspiration and guidance in our perplexities, whether we call it conscience, principle, or God.

MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

MARRIAGE is getting to be a non-stop flight from Niagara Falls to Reno.

At 20 the idea of being married all your life to just one man looks pretty monotonous. You look for excitement and surprises. At 40 you have discovered that there are enough surprises and excitement in any one marriage to keep your heart and nerves jumping overtime.

At 20 you sigh for variety. At 40 you know that there is more variety to be found in the hundred and one moods of a husband than in a hundred and one lovers—all in the same mood.

Nature can be blamed for lots of terrible things, such as cyclones, cold heads and criminal instincts; but the derby hat is man's own fault!

A man's work lasts from sun to sun—but his excuses for staying late at the office are never done.

A man is never so brilliant in his homilies on how to economize on butter and electricity as on the morning after he has bought a new set of golf clubs or lost the rent money in a poker game.

An ancient tortoise in a New York zoo has found a mate 229 years his junior. Well, there's ONE man Lothario who will probably concede that he has found a girl who is YOUNG enough for him!

Eve may have committed the first sin, but if Adam hadn't been in such a rush to help her the apple might never have stuck in his throat.

Never try to convince a man by telling him the honest truth—because the truth is the last thing that a man expects to hear from the lips of a woman.

SMART SAYINGS OF CLEVER CHILDREN

The Boston Evening American will pay $1 for published smart sayings. Address "Smart Sayings," Boston Evening American.

Conscientious Father—"What have I just spanked you for, Willie?"
Willie—"Oh, gee, I'm, you spanked me and now you don't even know what you spanked me for."

MISS WINNIE GADDIS.
70 Almont st., Winthrop.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

THE song writer who claims he wrote a song in an hour and a half probably spent 45 minutes hunting for his pencil.

Social Errors.

The book of etiquette says a man should spread his napkin on his lap. That's silly: how is he going to keep his vest clean?

The Unfair Sex.

The average woman figures she's happily married as long as she gets her alimony regularly.

Efficiency Experts.

The fellow who put phosphorus on his teeth so that he could find his mouth in the dark.

Our Own Vaudeville.

Spiritualist—Did you read about the plumber who died and then came back two days later?

Realist—He probably forgot his tools.

Advice to the Love-Worn

Men wouldn't start having domestic troubles so soon if they'd stay single longer.

Null and Void.

The man who went to the country, but said he didn't take any walks because he couldn't lift them.

Among the Illiterati.

A college student may be able to speak French, German and Italian fluently, but he always wires home for money in English.

Connubial Consolation.

Don't worry if your wife is driving you crazy; it's better than walking.

PATHS TO HAPPINESS

By LUCY LOWELL

ON the matter of acquiring happiness through securing what you most desire Benjamin Franklin had something interesting and wise to say.

"There are two ways," he wrote, "of being happy. We may either diminish our wants or augment our means—either will do—the result is the same, and it is for each man to decide for himself, and do that which happens to be the easiest."

In other words, if that which you want is really important to your welfare and progress and you are made of the proper stuff, you will so manage your capacities, so develop them and draw them out as to bring yourself up to the standard of the thing you want. After this it will be easy enough for you to acquire it. For it is only the thing seems way superior to ourselves that is difficult for us to reach.

But if the desired thing is trivial and unworthy, then it is necessary that we take stock of it and of ourselves, determining just what bizarre impulse makes it seem good to us and eliminating that impulse.

Franklin went on:

"If one were wise, you will do both at the same time, young or old, rich or poor, sick or well and if you are very wise you will do both in such a way as to augment the general happiness of society."

Living, of course, is no more than a series of adjustments, bringing ourselves to be satisfied and happy with what is good for us and turning with no backward glance of regret from that which does not mean our best interest.

In the degree with which this is accomplished living will be successful.

The Purity of Cuticura Makes It Unexcelled For All Toilet Purposes

THERE is nothing quite like Bayer Aspirin for all sorts of aches and pains, but be sure it is genuine Bayer; that name must be on the package, and on every tablet. Bayer is genuine, and the word genuine—in red—is on every box. You can't go wrong if you will just look at the box when you buy it:

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defence.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

Big News That Has Been Buried

But NOT in the Hearst Newspapers

Every day for weeks, big and important news has been "breaking" in the hearings of the Federal Trade Commission at Washington—and the Nation's Washington correspondent says that the newspapers of this country have been either too weak, too timid, or too wicked to tell their readers the story.

The story is a vicious and terrible one. It is the complete and verified account of how far the Power Trust has gone in its attempts, too often successful, to corrupt the press and the schools of America with its propaganda for private ownership of public utilities.

The Nation's correspondent is quite properly indignant that such really worthwhile news should be kept from the people of the United States. This is what he writes and the Nation published in its issue of May 16:

"Most of our poor innocents who rely upon the daily papers for their knowledge of events in Washington will be surprised to learn that the Federal Trade Commission during the last two weeks has been the scene of the most startling news since the original Teapot Dome disclosures. Indeed, in scope and significance, this makes the oil scandals seem tame. Despite all the high-powered and high-priced efforts to suppress them, the facts about the power trust and its enormous lobby are being divulged, and only the feebleness or venality of the newspapers has kept the public in ignorance of them. Aside from all other considerations, it breaks my reporter's heart to see such a sizzling going to waste.

"What a surfeit of material! A textbook used in seventy Connecticut high schools is proved to have been written by a paid propagandist of the public-utility companies. Vast sums have been collected and expended to influence state legislatures. Propaganda on a war-time scale is carried on. The main object of this huge expenditure of money and energy is to 'educate' the public against government ownership of public utilities. The most sinister aspect of it is the deliberate debauchery of the public schools. Not one college professor but a whole regiment are discovered as the recipients of money from power interests desiring to introduce their propaganda into the courses of study. Not even high school girls and boys have been exempt. Lessons, lectures, text books and teachers have been corrupted on an incredible scale. Here is corruption with a vengeance! No mere bribing of a cabinet officer, this, but a vast, deliberate and comprehensive scheme to prostitute the whole process of education for the purpose of influencing the immature minds of the next generation of citizens! Yet the Washington correspondents employ their time in writing silly speculative babble about the presidential primaries, and their editors devote uncounted columns to the opening of the baseball season!"

Yes, SOME Washington reporters, SOME editors—"under instructions"—have been doing that while the most astounding news story of the year has been "breaking" all around them. But while the Washington correspondent of the Nation knows all about this power propaganda, he does not seem to know that the Hearst Washington correspondents have been taking down EVERY detail of the evidence before the Federal Trade Commission and sending it on the wire to the Hearst newspaper editors, who have PRINTED IT for the benefit of their 20,000,000 readers.

Some other newspapers in this country have printed slight editorial comment on the power trust hearings or inadequate news stories, but the Hearst newspapers have printed ALL of the story and will continue to do so. They have told about the purchased professors, the trained writers jumping through hoops for the power trust, the textbooks that have been written and forced into economics and civics courses. The American people have been able to read in the Hearst newspapers what has been largely withheld from them elsewhere.

This is news that every American citizen should know. The Power Trust fought to prevent the present investigation of its activities. It fought Senate hearings and fought the Trade Commission hearings. Failing in that, it has succeeded in keeping the news from SOME newspaper readers—but NOT FROM TWENTY MILLION OF THEM. For the Hearst papers that news did not die at birth.

The Nation is just as expert at suppressing facts as any of the newspapers which it criticises for suppressing the facts in relation to the Power Trust expose. The editor of the Nation knows perfectly well that the Hearst papers did not suppress any facts, but for weeks have been publishing full accounts of the Trade Commission's investigation of the Power Trust. The editor of the Nation was quite as cowardly, quite as prejudiced, and perhaps not any more honest than the editors he criticises in suppressing truth which he did not wish to print. The only difference is that we expect higher standards and better ethics from the newspaper editors of the country generally, and do not expect anything admirable from Mr. Oswald Villard.

Many Titles—One Prince

And a New Uniform

Many who love titles, although Americans are not supposed to care about them, will learn with interest that the British King has just added one to the titles borne by his son, the Prince of Wales. The new title is "Master of the Merchant Navy and Fishing Fleet."

In honor of this new title the Prince, probably much bored by it, will order a new uniform. Apart from this latest title the Prince is twice an hereditary Prince, being Prince of Scotland as well as Prince of Wales, he is twice a Duke, twice an Earl, twice a Baron, and sixteen times a Colonel, in addition he has titles that come to him from the navy and other dignity.

Not content with all this, he insists on riding in steeplechases and takes his falls pluckily. Nothing can take the place of ACTION.

THOUGHTS ABOUT VOTING BY MAIL

By DR. FRANK CRANE

NOW that politics is showing signs of life it might be a good plan once more to inject into the public consciousness a few thoughts about voting by mail.

We are in the midst of a welter of political parties and all most of us have to do is to get out and do what one of these parties says for us to do. In any case we have no choice.

Newspapers and orators are fond of lambasting the American public because they do not vote. It might be more to the point if they gave them a chance to vote or made it to their interest and convenience to vote.

The present party system is certainly a failure when it comes to getting out the vote.

The statement is made that 64 per cent of the people entitled to a franchise decline to exercise it. Only 36 per cent of the people support the two parties.

Why cannot this 64 per cent get together?

It is simple and practical to adopt a voting system whereby a ballot is mailed to every citizen of the country to be marked by him in the quiet and propitious surroundings of his own home and mailed and returned to the proper official.

This system would absolutely get out 90 per cent of the voters.

By this system it could be found out inside of 30 days whether this country wants prohibition or not, whether it wants a high protective tariff or not and whether it wants a war or not. It is well-known that advocates both pro and con on these questions are going up and down the country asserting that the people favor their side. There is no system at present of finding out what side the people favor.

George Washington warned us against the party spirit, for among his last words were, "To avoid party spirit, the worst enemy of government, which in different ages and countries has perpetrated the most horrid enormities, is itself a frightful despotism."

While seated with our families around our own firesides, if we voted by mail and stopped the antiquated custom of voting in a booth, every one of us could help nominate and elect our officials.

If we are going to have a democracy let us have one and make it one where the people can easily give expression to their opinion. Why cannot the science of politics keep pace with the other sciences and why cannot our excellent postal system be employed to register the will of the people quickly and accurately instead of harking back to a system that might have been all right in Adams' or Jefferson's day, but is certainly out of date in ours? LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHEN I was young and snooty I found it very easy to believe in myself, but difficult to believe in other people.

Now that I'm older and wiser, and much madder, it is not at all hard for me to believe in other people, but it's the deuce of a job to keep up my faith in myself.

Taking them by and large other people have been pretty decent to me. They rarely hurt or double-cross me. Even when they do there's a certain kick in forgiving them and rediscovering their good qualities. It makes me feel like Mrs. God. For which reason I'm apt to overdo this forgiveness business. I've actually forgiven people when they didn't want to be forgiven, so anxious was I to show my noble nature. But when it comes to forgiving myself, that's another matter.

When I look back at the cruel and dishonest things I've done I'm consumed with bitterness. And out of that inner contempt a bad habit has arisen—

The habit of remorse—

The habit of always belittling myself.

At first glance that seems a commendable tendency, but it's actually pernicious, for it allows me to put over a very shy bit of trickery.

I grieve over the past in order to escape from the present.

I use remorse as a substitute for action. Instead of doing new good deeds I spend my time regretting old bad ones.

And this, I find, applies to quite a number of us.

We grow hurt and discouraged early in life, and our ambition wilts.

We begin distrusting and despising ourselves—

Saying to ourselves—"Aw, whatsa use trying? You're a failure anyway."

Out of this denial of ourselves we build up an attitude which is quite as terrible as the most distorted egotism. Indeed, it is another sort of egotism.

Self hate will make you "stuck on yourself" as surely as self love.

Either one narrows your life to Self and prevents you from serving the larger world.

So remorse isn't really the pretty little virtue it's cracked up to be.

If you once realize this fact you can't take so much comfort out of sitting down and thinking what a flop you've been. You'll suddenly see yourself as a selfish coward wallowing in the contemplation of your own failure. And you'll say—

"Snap out of it! Stop being a worm. Be honest with yourself. It isn't grief you're suffering from, it's laziness. You just don't want to buck up and face life and you're excusing yourself by pulling this remorse act. Cut it out! It's as much your duty to believe in yourself as it is to believe in anyone else. Then do it! Get up and wipe your chin, and get on your job! Atta kid!"

New York Day by Day

By O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 4—Diary of a modern Pepys: Out in a slashing pour to the docks to await a barque, and breakfasted on fried eels at a lunch counter with Harry Acton, the ship scribbler, and a red-haired, gum-chewing lady served us sullenly.

The sun shining again, for a walk uptown through the Rialto, and saw Carol McComas, the play actress; Karl Kitchen, who was shaking with ague; Fred C. Kelly and Fontaine Fox. And to call on Nellie Revell, who was out gadding. So back to my quarters to labor.

In the evening to a banquet and hour queasy they have become, nor will I attend another to hear windy talkers and eat tasteless food, albeit there was compensation in watching a tipsy waiter. Walked on the avenue with Sol Flaum, and to bed.

THE patrons of cheap lodging houses along the Bowery must be out of their bunks at 5 a. m. to make way for night workers who sleep there during the day. Most of them shake themselves in the manner of a wet dog and move sluggishly to lunch rooms.

At daylight they go to barber colleges for free shaves, and then to employment agencies, the newspaper want ad. bulletin boards, or to lounge in public parks. They are a great city's economic question marks who seek work, generally with the hope of not finding it.

Bowery lodging house prices range from 35 cents to 35 cents, paid in advance. Hospitality is scant in this world of chrome yellow. Hard-faced clerks regard them as "a lotta bums," and know them only by numbers. Conversation is a lost art. When they are not sleeping they sit at upstairs office windows as immobile as statues.

FIFTH ave. has a shop dealing exclusively in aviation products and accessories. Everything is for sale, from airplane goggles to a commercial ship. The shop maintains hangars on Long Island with a corps of instructors to teach those who make purchases.

AS one who often imagines himself the bright boy of the musical mail ads. headed: "They laughed when he sat down at the piano, but when he started to play——." there was something just too cute in an episode near the N. V. A. Club the other noon. A group at the curb was approached by a cop who shouted: "Move on, boys. And make it snappy." An acrobat graceously detached himself from the crowd and moved toward the clubhouse in a series of swooping back handsprings.

JOE COOK, the agile comique, is said to have never visited a New York night club. His home is at Lake Hopatcong, N. J., and for the years he has been playing on Broadway he has never remained from the family fireside over night. His home is a two-hour drive from Times sq.

MR. COOK has hung up a domestic record. In contrast is the story of a juvenile actor. A friend called on his home to inquire for him. His wife answered and said her husband was not in.

"When do you expect him?" she was asked.

"Oh, most anytime," she replied, and added: "He's generally there around the Christmas holidays."

I DON'T know the connection—and don't tell me—but it is heralded in a page magazine ad. that "the glamorous darling of musical comedy—the adorable and unforgettable—is dancing more enchantingly than ever." It is further printed right out loud she uses a certain toilet soap. Maybe the little dear soaps her toes.

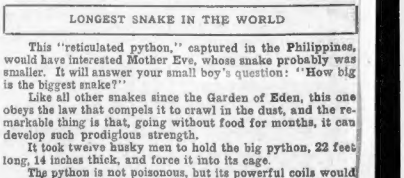
Earth's Largest Reptile

A Hideously Powerful Monster



LONGEST SNAKE IN THE WORLD

This "reticulated python," captured in the Philippines, would have interested Mother Eve, whose snake probably was smaller. It will answer your small boy's question: "How big is the biggest snake?"

Like all other snakes since the Garden of Eden, this one obeys the law that compels it to crawl in the dust, and the remarkable thing is that, going without food for months, it can develop such prodigious strength.

It took twelve husky men to hold the big python, 22 feet long, 14 inches thick, and force it into its cage.

The python is not poisonous, but its powerful coils would soon squeeze the life out of any man, and the employes of the Philadelphia Zoo handle it respectfully.

Flying lizards once lived on the earth so big that they could eat this python as a robin would eat worms. Snakes fifty times bigger, some of them probably living in the sea, have also lived on earth without doubt.

But the four-footed monsters and the creeping monsters are gradually being killed off, leaving the earth to man. He is occasionally a monster also—cruel in war—but he is improving.
